House Votes For Standby Controls

Bill Includes Broad Powers For President

"Trigger" System Advocates Give Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP) — The House overwhelmingly voted standby price-wage-rationing powers for President Truman into the administration's more limited economic control bills today.

The voice vote on the amendment was not the last word but it was strong enough to make the chances of success look mighty thin for any opponent who insists on a roll call on the point later.

Action on the new section of the measure came as the House pressed forward in an attempt to dispose of the whole bill by tomorrow at the latest.

The decision came after advocates of a "trigger" system for automatic consumer controls gave up and helped push for passage of a wholly discretionary plan worked out by the banking committee.

Two Curbs — On Authority

The only curbs on the President's discretion for price-wage-rationing rules under the section adopted today are these:

1. A recommendation — but not a direction — that he first try to hold down inflation through voluntary agreements.

2. A provision that if a "substantial" part of retail prices have gone under control, wages must be curbed.

The House measure is much in line with the one approved Monday night by the Senate Banking Committee. The latter measure awaits action in the Senate, perhaps tomorrow.

Both bills also cover Mr. Truman's request for authority to apply allocation and priorities controls to speed defense output, to seize goods and plants if needed for defense, to curb credit, and to make production loans up to a limit of $2,000,000,000.

Bills Differ On Cutoff Dates

The President made no request for price-pay-rationing curbs, whether mandatory or discretionary. He did concede, after pressure for the extra authority built up at the Capitol, that he would have "no objection" to flexible and strictly permissive powers of the sort if they were not allowed to get in the way of what he did ask.

The principal difference between the prices, pay and rationing sections in the bills before the two houses is in their cutoff dates. The Senate measure would keep the authority in effect until June 30,

Keyserling Urges Huge Production To Deter Russia

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Leon H. Keyserling, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, called tonight for a huge production goal of $350,000,000,000 a year by 1955, compared with the present $270,000,000,000 rate.

If we accomplish this, he said, "we will keep so far ahead of the Soviets that the folly of attempting to continue their aggressive actions may become apparent even to them."

Keyserling's remarks were made in a radio speech prepared for delivery in Washington.

Executive Office Strives To Settle Railroad Dispute

Union Heads Urge Government Seizure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP) — An implied threat of a major railroad strike in the midst of the Korean war crisis has brought the White House in as mediator on the 40-hour week demands of conductors and trainmen.

The executive office first disclosed today that it has taken up the case, but without reporting its new urgency.

Then Sen. Morse (R-Ore) read in the Senate a telegram he said the heads of the two unions sent to President Truman last Friday. It urged government seizure of the lines "in the national interest and to avert a potential substantial interruption in essential railroad transportation."

Morse read the telegram while union heads and spokesmen for the country's major carriers were meeting at the White House with John R. Steelman, presidential assistant and Mr. Truman's ace labor troubleshooter. The sessions have been going on for two days.

The dispute is over the demands of the conductors' and trainmen's unions for a 40-hour week without loss of pay. A presidential board held against them last May.

The telegram read by Morse was signed by R. O. Hughes, president of the conductors, and W. P. Kennedy, president of the trainmen.

They spoke of "reaching a serious crisis" in their 17-month dispute, and told the President:

"In the national interest and to avert a potential substantial interruption in essential railroad transportation, we respectfully recommend to you that our government take possession of and operate the railroads of the United States until such time as this dispute is settled in fairness to the rights of our members."

They said their members would "work for the government gladly under government operation of the railroads during this period of crisis until this dispute can be settled on its merits through mediation."

The 250,000 members of the conductors' and trainmen's unions have asked for the same 40-hour week, without loss of pay, that was granted last year to 17 non-operating unions representing men who do not actually run trains.

Four Children Killed When Truck Upsets

MATTAWAMKEAG, Me., Aug. 9 (AP)—Four of 41 merrymaking children riding home from a picnic died when a truck overturned near here tonight.

All the other children but one and two adults were injured.

The group was from East Millinocket, 15 miles northwest of here.

State police listed the dead as:

Norma G. Malone, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Malone; Leonard Gallant, eight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gallant; Judy Osgood, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Osgood, Bangor, and Eva Page, age undetermined, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Page.

State police said Eva's father drove the one and one-half ton stake truck. They said the vehicle swerved off the road, climbed an embankment and tipped over.

Army To Reopen Five More Training Camps

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Army announced today plans for immediately re-opening five more camps to train more combat and service troops.

They are Camps Rucker at Daleville, Ala.; Stewart at Hinesville, Ga.; Roberts at San Miguel, Calif.; McCoy at Sparta, Wis.; and Edwards at North Falmouth, Mass.

Malik To Join U.N. Council's Secret Talks

West Won't Try To Eject Russian

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 9 (AP)—Russia's Jacob A. Malik agreed tentatively today to meet other members of the U. N. Security Council in a secret session here tomorrow to discuss the council's stalemate on the Korean issue.

This was disclosed tonight after a two-hour meeting of non-communist members of the Security Council in the British delegation office.

A British spokesman said Malik had agreed "in principle" to attend the meeting behind closed doors tomorrow but he would not say that Malik definitely would be there.

The session tomorrow will be held in advance of an open meeting scheduled for 2 p. m. (E.S.T.). The British spokesman would not say what time the closed meeting will be held.

Before the secret meeting this afternoon it was disclosed that the United States and Britain have decided against any move to eject Malik from the presidency of the Security Council at this time.

A British spokesman said that his delegation does not believe it is legally possible to make such a move now. Other sources said the Americans did not believe it was necessary to take such strong measures at this time.

Ernest A. Gross, number two U. S. delegate on the Security Council, attended the closed session today with John C. Ross, another delegate, and James N. Hyde, an advisor to the U. S. delegation. All other council delegates were present except Malik, the president of the council for August, and the Yugoslav delegate.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain presided over the informal session. After the meeting, a brief communique said that the meeting was held to consider difficulties as a result of recent sessions of the Security Council. This communique said that Malik had been asked if he would attend a closed session tomorrow with the other delegates to discuss the procedural wrangle and that he had agreed in principle to do so.

Arne Sunde of Norway called Malik from the British offices while the session was being held and obtained his tentative agreement to meet the others at Lake Success tomorrow.

Ales Bebler, deputy foreign minister of Communist Yugoslavia, was invited to attend today's meeting but declined the bid.

Two Die In Fire On U. S. Cruiser

PEADD HARBOR, Aug. 9 (AP) — The Navy said today two enlisted men were killed and four injured in a flash fire aboard the cruiser Manchester last Thursday.

An announcement said the fire occured in the aft fire room while the light cruiser was 500 miles out of Hawaii. It was en route from the west coast to Pearl Harbor.

The navy listed the dead as:

Roger E. Pelland, boilerman first class, son of Mrs. Alcide Pelland, Williamsett, Mass.

Albert P. Corbett, fireman, brother of Florence Neild, Roxborough, Pa.

A Navy spokesman said four other crew members were in Tripler General Hospital here with minor to moderate injuries.

Boy's Teacher Becomes His Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Williams, Jr., are shown at their West Springfield, Mass., home yesterday after their honeymoon. The bride, the former Mrs. Jean Bressette, 30, was a high school English teacher and her 18-year-old hubby was one of her students—and received straight A's in English. She says she is not planning to return to the classroom where their romance blossomed.

Case Of Airman 'Saved' By Batory Puzzles Officials

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Polish liner Batory plowed toward Europe today with an airman who landed his rented seaplane near the vessel more than 100 miles out in the Atlantic.

Whether it was by accident or design no one could immediately determine.

Has U. S. Passport

The seaplane pilot, after giving another name to the skipper of the Batory, finally said his name was William Jesse Newton of New York. The skipper, Capt. Jan Cwiklinski, messaged the Gdynia-American Line that Newton had U. S. citizen's passport No. 357 issued by the American Embassy in Mexico Jan. 7, 1947.

The Batory asked the Coast Guard to take him off the vessel after it picked him up yesterday. The Coast Guard declined, and pilot and seaplane went on with the Batory which pauses at Southampton, England, next Wednesday on its way to Poland.

Ever since German Communist Gerhard Eisler jumped bail and escaped from this country aboard the Batory in May, 1949, the vessel has been closely watched by U. S. officials.

Ship Searched On Arrival

When it arrived here last Friday it was the first iron curtain country vessel to undergo rigorous inspection for possible hidden atomic bombs.

Greatly annoyed by the whole affair was George Lambros, Jr., operator of the Lambros seaplane base in Ridgefield Park, N. J., who rented the $2,600 Cub Piper seaplane to Newton. He said he'd sue if necessary to recover his plane.

Marines Seek Books

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 9 (AP)—A public appeal was issued today by the Marine Corps, through the Red Cross, for donations of thousands of pocket mystery and comic books.

Mosquitoes Given Radioactive Shot

TURLOCK, Calif., Aug. 9 (AP) — There will be a million "hot" mosquitoes around here in the next few days.

Each will be tagged with a shot of radioactive phosphorus.

Then they will be trapped over a 10-mile radius. Geiger counters and other atomic detecting gadgets will identify them. Thus, scientists hope to learn how fast and how far the pests travel.

Dr. Wilton L. Halverson, state director of public health, said the radioactive concentration would be so low there would be no danger of contamination from the mosquitoes, even should a person encounter a big convention of the insects.

RFC Board Is Shaken Up By Truman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP) — President Truman today shook up the management of the oft-criticized Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC).

In a surprise move, Mr. Truman dropped Chairman Harley Hise , a Democrat, and Harvey Gunderson, a Republican, from the five-man board of directors.

So wide was the sweep that only two of the original board survived: William E. Willet, a Democrat, from Maryland, and Walter Lee Dunham, a Republican, from Michigan.

The three vacancies went to:

C. Edward Rowe, Marlboro, Mass., who practices law in Boston. He is a Democrat.

Walter E. Cosgriff, president of the Continental National Bank and Trust Company of Salt Lake City and president of the Salt Lake City Clearing House. He is a Republican.

W. Elmer Harber, president of the First National Bank of Seminole, Okla., and also president of the American National Bank at Shawnee, Okla. Harber is a Democrat.

Each appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

One of the board posts had been vacant for several months, ever since the resignation of Henry A. Mulligan.

Mr. Truman gave no reason for his action.

Deputy Sheriff Kills Desperado Who Slew Three

EMINENCE, Mo., Aug. 9 (AP)—A desperado who fled after the slaying of three persons and the wounding of two others was killed today with a single shot.

Paul Frey, a deputy sheriff, felled William Harris, 39-year-old ex-convict after he refused to halt while crossing a road in one of the wildest sections of the Ozarks Mountains of Southern Missouri.

Death of the fugitive ended a two-day manhunt in which more than 100 officers and possemen manned road blocks leading into the rugged, sparsely-settled area.

Frey and several other possemen were stationed about six miles southeast of Fremont, Mo., when they spotted Harris crossing a trail.

Frey called upon the fugitive to halt. Instead Harris dashed into the brush and timber. Frey fired with his rifle, the bullet entering the fugitive's left side under the armpit and passing through his chest.

Harris was carrying a shotgun.

His own four-year-old daughter, Barbara, was one of the victims. Also killed were Richard Fansler, 63, at whose home Harris, his wife and two daughters had been staying, and the farmer's son, Homer L. Fansler.

Wounded were Fansler's wife, Rosa, 50, and his brother-in-law, Elmer Nichols.

Harris fled in his car, taking with him the body of his daughter, his wife and another daughter, and Miss Joyce Thomas, 15, who was visiting the Fansler family.

In the flight Harris' car ran into a ditch and he fled into the hills on foot.

Senate Moving Day

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Senate will move into the old Supreme Court chambers in the Capitol by Aug. 15, Senate Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois announced today.

The shift is necessary to permit workmen to finish renovating the Senate chamber.

Congress Moves To Tighten Internal Security Safeguards

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Congress moved fast today to stack up more lawbook defenses against spies, plotters and loose-tongued government employes.

The Senate passed three such bills, among them one which would make it possible for the government to keep any suspected subversive alien—even a diplomat—from entering the United States.

The House Un-American Activities Committee moved beyond President Truman's recommendations in laying its plans for a security crackdown on communists and seditionists.

The Senate passed its three anti-subversion bills without a single objecting vote.

One of them would authorize the death penalty for peacetime spying on behalf of a foreign government.

Another would give the heads of so-called sensitive government agencies power to fire or suspend employes regarded as "bad security risks."

The third, approved late in the day, would insert drastic new exclusion powers in the immigration laws. Admission could be refused communists, fascists, anarchists, and anybody else who might seek to come into the country for subversive purposes. The measure also would make it easier to deport suspected aliens already here.

The President would be authorized to lay down the regulations as they affect ambassadors and other diplomats, their families and certain members of their staffs. Top representatives of international organizations would be included in this category.

The bill now goes to the House.

The President signed during the day a bill authorizing him to protect U. S. ports against atomic attack. Under it he can control the movement of foreign ships in American waters and take other measures to safeguard harbors and waterfronts.

President Truman's message to Congress yesterday regarding the steps he'd like to see taken to guard against internal subversion stirred up a lot of activity. Not all of it, however, was in tune with his wishes. He had expressed the belief that America's fredom can be kept secure "without x x x unduly limiting individual rights and liberties." By description if not by name he had made clear his distaste for several of the anti-subversive bills pending in Congress.

Nevertheless, the House Un-American Activities Committee, meeting behind closed doors, agreed to incorporate some of the principal features of the Mundt-Nixon bill in a communist control measure it expects to send to the House within a few days.

North Koreans May Abandon Chinju, Southern Anchor City

Americans Open New Attack Along Naktong; Reds Recapture Yongdok

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 10 (AP)—American patrols have reached the banks of the Nam River, less than five miles from Chinju, and the enemy retreat is now "in nature of a rout," Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today.

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 10 (AP)—Two onrushing Army infantry spearheads of the American southern offensive reportedly linked up today six to seven miles east of Chinju. The Korean communists appeared ready to flee this southern anchor of their line.

Reports to U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said doughboys of the Fifth Regimental Combat Team and the 25th Infantry Division's 35th Regiment joined on high-ground that leads to within two miles of the burned-out city. The reds had hoped to drive from there eastward 55 air miles to Pusan, the all-important United Nations supply port.

This means the American infantrymen, in their slugging offensive, are moving toward closing a trap around red North Korean troops in this flaming sector.

Along the Naktong River line to the north, Americans launched a new attack. Apparently they already had stalled a major red offensive aimed at punching through to the communications center of Taegu. No new crossings were reported during Wednesday night and early Thursday morning.

Reds Recapture Yongdok

But on the eastern end of the United Nations northern front, the reds recaptured the rubbled town of Yongdok on the east coast. They surged almost a mile southward past the town which is the northern anchor of the Allied line and was defended by Southern Korean troops.

In the southern offensive, U. S. patrols were only seven miles east of Chinju, red springboard for a drive on Pusan, vital U. N. supply port 55 air miles to the east.

These patrols were from the 35th regiment of the Army's 25th Infantry Division which was pushing westward only 12 miles from the burned-out city.

Striking out to link up with the 35th, the Army's Fifth Regimental Combat Team attacked at midnight Wednesday in the second major American night assault of the war.

Eight hours later, Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead reported from the front that the fifth was within four miles of a linkup with the 35th. He said the North Koreans were falling back hurriedly to escape the trap Americans were trying to clamp shut.

Whitehead said the three-day American assault "broke the back of enemy resistance" 10 miles west of Masan, midway between Chinju and Pusan. Two regiments of the touted North Korean Sixth Division had been chewed to bits.

Planes Pound Reds

Allied fighter planes and light bombers added to the confusion in the Communist rear by pounding Chinju during the night and shooting up communications points and retreating red columns.

Associated Press Correspondent O. H. P. King reported from the Naktong River front that Americans opened a new attack about dawn Thursday against the red Changnyong area bridgehead.

In this action about 29 miles southwest of Taegu on the U. S. 24th Division front, King said, small numbers of reds were being forced back across the river. The attack enabled American tanks to get into action.

Soviets Gather Ships, Supplies At Vladivostok

Drydocks Towed To Korea's Doorstep

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—Russia is reported assemblying drydocks, merchant vessels and supplies at Vladivostok, right on Korea's doorstep.

A study released today by American ship owners reports a large number of Soviet vessels of all types have been sailing out of Baltic and Black Sea ports to the Soviet's chief Siberian seaport, less than 100 miles from Korea.

The American Merchant Marine Institute, a trade organization of ship owners whose vessels fly the American flag, drew the following picture after studying available records:

Russian tankers with full cargoes have sailed to the Far Eastern harbor of Vladivostok recently from the Black Sea oil ports of Constanza and Batum.

Within the past two months three drydocks have been towed from Latvia, on the Baltic, and from Odessa an the Black Sea, to Vladivostok.

Many of the merchantmen bound for the Far East were loaded with grain. Others carried general cargo. Even trawlers were repoted in the movement to the Pacific.

Meanwhile, in the Soviet-controlled shipyards of Eastern Germany repair work has been going at full tilt on Russian vessels. Seven Soviet vessels were at Antwerp recently waiting repairs.

"What bearing all this may have on the Korean situation remains to be seen," the institute said.

"This heavy movement by water could mean the Trans-Siberian railroad is fully occupied with the transportation of military materials."

It attached "special significance" to the transfer of drydocks, all of which put in at Singapore for fuel and stores.

The stop at Singapore of the tug-towed drydocks is an example of the manner in which the movement of Soviet vessels may be traced.

Track Operator Helped Warren

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—William H. Johnston, Chicago and Florida race track operator, testified today he made contributions to Florida Gov. Warren's 1948 campaign fund in cash because "if he didn't win I didn't want to be identified with it."

He said he turned in about $100,000 for the Warren campaign. Part of this was his own money, he said, and the rest came from his brother, J. R. Johnston, and Max Silverberg, a race track concessionaire.

The testimony was given before the Senate Crime Committee, headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn). It is looking into all phases of gambling and is especially interested in (a) the effect of gambling on local law enforcement, and (b) the interlocking, if any, of gambling interests in major cities.

"What did you expect to get for this contribution," Johnston was asked by committee counsel Rudolph Halley.

"I didn't expect anything," he replied.

Today was Florida day for the committee.

In addition to Johnston, it heard from officials of the S. and G. bookmaking syndicate in Miami Beach, Fla., an outfit that has grossed as high as $26,000,000 a year.

Jules Levitt, one of the six partners in the bookmaking syndicate, said the syndicate closed down two weeks ago and doesn't plan to reopen.

Newspaper publicity, he told the senators, had ruined the once flourishing business. He denied a suggestion that Chicago interests had muscled in on the syndicate a year ago, forcing it to take in a new partner.

Senate Rejects Four Nominees

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP) —The Senate today handed President Truman his worst drubbing of the session on nominations for federal jobs, turning down four men named to major office.

Home state politics was an issue in every case.

They were:

Carroll O. Switzer for Southern Iowa federal judge.

M. Neil Andrews for Northern Georgia federal judge.

Martin A. Hutchinson of Virginia for Federal Trade Commissioner.

Frank E. Hook, former Michigan Democratic representative, for membership on the Motor Carrier Claims Commission.

The votes confirmed earlier signs of a major rebellion in the Senate against the President's job-filling activities.

All four men had gotten a thumbs-down sign from Senate committees after objections to their confirmation were registered by home state senators.

Three were opposed by Democrats and the fourth—Hook—by Republican Sen. Ferguson (Mich).

Executive Office Strives To Settle Railroad Dispute

Union Heads Urge Government Seizure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP) — An implied threat of a major railroad strike in the midst of the Korean war crisis has brought the White House in as mediator on the 40-hour week demands of conductors and trainmen.

The executive office first disclosed today that it has taken up the case, but without reporting its new urgency.

Then Sen. Morse (R-Ore) read in the Senate a telegram he said the heads of the two unions sent to President Truman last Friday. It urged government seizure of the lines "in the national interest and to avert a potential substantial interruption in essential railroad transportation."

Morse read the telegram while union heads and spokesmen for the country's major carriers were meeting at the White House with John R. Steelman, presidential assistant and Mr. Truman's ace labor troubleshooter. The sessions have been going on for two days.

The dispute is over the demands of the conductors' and trainmen's unions for a 40-hour week without loss of pay. A presidential board held against them last May.

The telegram read by Morse was signed by R. O. Hughes, president of the conductors, and W. P. Kennedy, president of the trainmen.

They spoke of "reaching a serious crisis" in their 17-month dispute, and told the President:

"In the national interest and to avert a potential substantial interruption in essential railroad transportation, we respectfully recommend to you that our government take possession of and operate the railroads of the United States until such time as this dispute is settled in fairness to the rights of our members."

They said their members would "work for the government gladly under government operation of the railroads during this period of crisis until this dispute can be settled on its merits through mediation."

The 250,000 members of the conductors' and trainmen's unions have asked for the same 40-hour week, without loss of pay, that was granted last year to 17 non-operating unions representing men who do not actually run trains.

Four Children Killed When Truck Upsets

MATTAWAMKEAG, Me., Aug. 9 (AP)—Four of 41 merrymaking children riding home from a picnic died when a truck overturned near here tonight.

All the other children but one and two adults were injured.

The group was from East Millinocket, 15 miles northwest of here.

State police listed the dead as:

Norma G. Malone, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Malone; Leonard Gallant, eight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gallant; Judy Osgood, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Osgood, Bangor, and Eva Page, age undetermined, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Page.

State police said Eva's father drove the one and one-half ton stake truck. They said the vehicle swerved off the road, climbed an embankment and tipped over.

Malik To Join U.N. Council's Secret Talks

West Won't Try To Eject Russian

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 9 (AP)—Russia's Jacob A. Malik agreed tentatively today to meet other members of the U. N. Security Council in a secret session here tomorrow to discuss the council's stalemate on the Korean issue.

This was disclosed tonight after a two-hour meeting of non-communist members of the Security Council in the British delegation office.

A British spokesman said Malik had agreed "in principle" to attend the meeting behind closed doors tomorrow but he would not say that Malik definitely would be there.

The session tomorrow will be held in advance of an open meeting scheduled for 2 p. m. (E.S.T.). The British spokesman would not say what time the closed meeting will be held.

Before the secret meeting this afternoon it was disclosed that the United States and Britain have decided against any move to eject Malik from the presidency of the Security Council at this time.

A British spokesman said that his delegation does not believe it is legally possible to make such a move now. Other sources said the Americans did not believe it was necessary to take such strong measures at this time.

Ernest A. Gross, number two U. S. delegate on the Security Council, attended the closed session today with John C. Ross, another delegate, and James N. Hyde, an advisor to the U. S. delegation. All other council delegates were present except Malik, the president of the council for August, and the Yugoslav delegate.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain presided over the informal session. After the meeting, a brief communique said that the meeting was held to consider difficulties as a result of recent sessions of the Security Council. This communique said that Malik had been asked if he would attend a closed session tomorrow with the other delegates to discuss the procedural wrangle and that he had agreed in principle to do so.

Arne Sunde of Norway called Malik from the British offices while the session was being held and obtained his tentative agreement to meet the others at Lake Success tomorrow.

Ales Bebler, deputy foreign minister of Communist Yugoslavia, was invited to attend today's meeting but declined the bid.

Two Die In Fire On U.S. Cruiser

PEADD HARBOR, Aug. 9 (AP) — The Navy said today two enlisted men were killed and four injured in a flash fire aboard the cruiser Manchester last Thursday.

An announcement said the fire occured in the aft fire room while the light cruiser was 500 miles out of Hawaii. It was en route from the west coast to Pearl Harbor.

The navy listed the dead as:

Roger E. Pelland, boilerman first class, son of Mrs. Alcide Pelland, Williamsett, Mass.

Albert P. Corbett, fireman, brother of Florence Neild, Roxborough, Pa.

A Navy spokesman said four other crew members were in Tripler General Hospital here with minor to moderate injuries.

Boy's Teacher Becomes His Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Williams, Jr., are shown at their West Springfield, Mass., home yesterday after their honeymoon. The bride, the former Mrs. Jean Bressette, 30, was a high school English teacher and her 18-year-old hubby was one of her students—and received straight A's in English. She says she is not planning to return to the classroom where their romance blossomed.

Case Of Airman 'Saved' By Batory Puzzles Officials

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Polish liner Batory plowed toward Europe today with an airman who landed his rented seaplane near the vessel more than 100 miles out in the Atlantic.

Whether it was by accident or design no one could immediately determine.

Has U. S. Passport

The seaplane pilot, after giving another name to the skipper of the Batory, finally said his name was William Jesse Newton of New York. The skipper, Capt. Jan Cwiklinski, messaged the Gdynia-American Line that Newton had U. S. citizen's passport No. 357 issued by the American Embassy in Mexico Jan. 7, 1947.

The Batory asked the Coast Guard to take him off the vessel after it picked him up yesterday. The Coast Guard declined, and pilot and seaplane went on with the Batory which pauses at Southampton, England, next Wednesday on its way to Poland.

Ever since German Communist Gerhard Eisler jumped bail and escaped from this country aboard the Batory in May, 1949, the vessel has been closely watched by U. S. officials.

Ship Searched On Arrival

When it arrived here last Friday it was the first iron curtain country vessel to undergo rigorous inspection for possible hidden atomic bombs.

Greatly annoyed by the whole affair was George Lambros, Jr., operator of the Lambros seaplane base in Ridgefield Park, N. J., who rented the $2,600 Cub Piper seaplane to Newton. He said he'd sue if necessary to recover his plane.

Marines Seek Books

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 9 (AP)—A public appeal was issued today by the Marine Corps, through the Red Cross, for donations of thousands of pocket mystery and comic books.

Mosquitoes Given Radioactive Shot

TURLOCK, Calif., Aug. 9 (AP) — There will be a million "hot" mosquitoes around here in the next few days.

Each will be tagged with a shot of radioactive phosphorus.

Then they will be trapped over a 10-mile radius. Geiger counters and other atomic detecting gadgets will identify them. Thus, scientists hope to learn how fast and how far the pests travel.

Dr. Wilton L. Halverson, state director of public health, said the radioactive concentration would be so low there would be no danger of contamination from the mosquitoes, even should a person encounter a big convention of the insects.

RFC Board Is Shaken Up By Truman

WASHINGTON, Ang. 9 (AP) — President Truman today shook up the management of the oft-criticized Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC).

In a surprise move, Mr. Truman dropped Chairman Harley Hise , a Democrat, and Harvey Gunderson, a Republican, from the five-man board of directors.

So wide was the sweep that only two of the original board survived: William E. Willet, a Democrat, from Maryland, and Walter Lee Dunham, a Republican, from Michigan.

The three vacancies went to:

C. Edward Rowe, Marlboro, Mass., who practices law in Boston. He is a Democrat.

Walter E. Cosgriff, president of the Continental National Bank and Trust Company of Salt Lake City and president of the Salt Lake City Clearing House. He is a Republican.

W. Elmer Harber, president of the First National Bank of Seminole, Okla., and also president of the American National Bank at Shawnee, Okla. Harber is a Democrat.

Each appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

One of the board posts had been vacant for several months, ever since the resignation of Henry A. Mulligan.

Mr. Truman gave no reason for his action.

Deputy Sheriff Kills Desperado Who Slew Three

EMINENCE, Mo., Aug. 9 (AP)—A desperado who fled after the slaying of three persons and the wounding of two others was killed today with a single shot.

Paul Frey, a deputy sheriff, felled William Harris, 39-year-old ex-convict after he refused to halt while crossing a road in one of the wildest sections of the Ozarks Mountains of Southern Missouri.

Death of the fugitive ended a two-day manhunt in which more than 100 officers and possemen manned road blocks leading into the rugged, sparsely-settled area.

Frey and several other possemen were stationed about six miles southeast of Fremont, Mo., when they spotted Harris crossing a trail.

Frey called upon the fugitive to halt. Instead Harris dashed into the brush and timber. Frey fired with his rifle, the bullet entering the fugitive's left side under the armpit and passing through his chest.

Harris was carrying a shotgun.

His own four-year-old daughter, Barbara, was one of the victims. Also killed were Richard Fansler, 63, at whose home Harris, his wife and two daughters had been staying, and the farmer's son, Homer L. Fansler.

Wounded were Fansler's wife, Rosa, 50, and his brother-in-law, Elmer Nichols.

Harris fled in his car, taking with him the body of his daughter, his wife and another daughter, and Miss Joyce Thomas, 15, who was visiting the Fansler family.

In the flight Harris' car ran into a ditch and he fled into the hills on foot.

Senate Moving Day

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Senate will move into the old Supreme Court chambers in the Capitol by Aug. 15, Senate Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois announced today.

The shift is necessary to permit workmen to finish renovating the Senate chamber.

Congress Moves To Tighten Internal Security Safeguards

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Congress moved fast today to stack up more lawbook defenses against spies, plotters and loose-tongued government employes.

The Senate passed three such bills, among them one which would make it possible for the government to keep any suspected subversive alien—even a diplomat—from entering the United States.

The House Un-American Activities Committee moved beyond President Truman's recommendations in laying its plans for a security crackdown on communists and seditionists.

The Senate passed its three anti-subversion bills without a single objecting vote.

One of them would authorize the death penalty for peacetime spying on behalf of a foreign government.

Another would give the heads of so-called sensitive government agencies power to fire or suspend employes regarded as "bad security risks."

The third, approved late in the day, would insert drastic new exclusion powers in the immigration laws. Admission could be refused communists, fascists, anarchists, and anybody else who might seek to come into the country for subversive purposes. The measure also would make it easier to deport suspected aliens already here.

The President would be authorized to lay down the regulations as they affect ambassadors and other diplomats, their families and certain members of their staffs. Top representatives of international organizations would be included in this category.

The bill now goes to the House.

The President signed during the day a bill authorizing him to protect U. S. ports against atomic attack. Under it he can control the movement of foreign ships in American waters and take other measures to safeguard harbors and waterfronts.

President Truman's message to Congress yesterday regarding the steps he'd like to see taken to guard against internal subversion stirred up a lot of activity. Not all of it, however, was in tune with his wishes. He had expressed the belief that America's fredom can be kept secure "without x x x unduly limiting individual rights and liberties." By description if not by name he had made clear his distaste for several of the anti-subversive bills pending in Congress.

Nevertheless, the House Un-American Activities Committee, meeting behind closed doors, agreed to incorporate some of the principal features of the Mundt-Nixon bill in a communist control measure it expects to send to the House within a few days.

North Koreans May Abandon Chinju, Southern Anchor City

Americans Open New Attack Along Naktong; Reds Recapture Yongdok

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 10 (AP)—American patrols have reached the banks of the Nam River, less than five miles from Chinju, and the enemy retreat is now "in nature of a rout," Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today.

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 10 (AP)—Two onrushing Army infantry spearheads of the American southern offensive reportedly linked up today six to seven miles east of Chinju. The Korean communists appeared ready to flee this southern anchor of their line.

Reports to U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said doughboys of the Fifth Regimental Combat Team and the 25th Infantry Division's 35th Regiment joined on high-ground that leads to within two miles of the burned-out city. The reds had hoped to drive from there eastward 55 air miles to Pusan, the all-important United Nations supply port.

This means the American infantrymen, in their slugging offensive, are moving toward closing a trap around red North Korean troops in this flaming sector.

Along the Naktong River line to the north, Americans launched a new attack. Apparently they already had stalled a major red offensive aimed at punching through to the communications center of Taegu. No new crossings were reported during Wednesday night and early Thursday morning.

Reds Recapture Yongdok

But on the eastern end of the United Nations northern front, the reds recaptured the rubbled town of Yongdok on the east coast. They surged almost a mile southward past the town which is the northern anchor of the Allied line and was defended by Southern Korean troops.

In the southern offensive, U. S. patrols were only seven miles east of Chinju, red springboard for a drive on Pusan, vital U. N. supply port 55 air miles to the east.

These patrols were from the 35th regiment of the Army's 25th Infantry Division which was pushing westward only 12 miles from the burned-out city.

Striking out to link up with the 35th, the Army's Fifth Regimental Combat Team attacked at midnight Wednesday in the second major American night assault of the war.

Eight hours later, Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead reported from the front that the fifth was within four miles of a linkup with the 35th. He said the North Koreans were falling back hurriedly to escape the trap Americans were trying to clamp shut.

Whitehead said the three-day American assault "broke the back of enemy resistance" 10 miles west of Masan, midway between Chinju and Pusan. Two regiments of the touted North Korean Sixth Division had been chewed to bits.

Planes Pound Reds

Allied fighter planes and light bombers added to the confusion in the Communist rear by pounding Chinju during the night and shooting up communications points and retreating red columns.

Associated Press Correspondent O. H. P. King reported from the Naktong River front that Americans opened a new attack about dawn Thursday against the red Changnyong area bridgehead.

In this action about 29 miles southwest of Taegu on the U. S. 24th Division front, King said, small numbers of reds were being forced back across the river. The attack enabled American tanks to get into action.

Soviets Gather Ships, Supplies At Vladivostok

Drydocks Towed To Korea's Doorstep

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—Russia is reported assemblying drydocks, merchant vessels and supplies at Vladivostok, right on Korea's doorstep.

A study released today by American ship owners reports a large number of Soviet vessels of all types have been sailing out of Baltic and Black Sea ports to the Soviet's chief Siberian seaport, less than 100 miles from Korea.

The American Merchant Marine Institute, a trade organization of ship owners whose vessels fly the American flag, drew the following picture after studying available records:

Russian tankers with full cargoes have sailed to the Far Eastern harbor of Vladivostok recently from the Black Sea oil ports of Constanza and Batum.

Within the past two months three drydocks have been towed from Latvia, on the Baltic, and from Odessa an the Black Sea, to Vladivostok.

Many of the merchantmen bound for the Far East were loaded with grain. Others carried general cargo. Even trawlers were repoted in the movement to the Pacific.

Meanwhile, in the Soviet-controlled shipyards of Eastern Germany repair work has been going at full tilt on Russian vessels. Seven Soviet vessels were at Antwerp recently waiting repairs.

"What bearing all this may have on the Korean situation remains to be seen," the institute said.

"This heavy movement by water could mean the Trans-Siberian railroad is fully occupied with the transportation of military materials."

It attached "special significance" to the transfer of drydocks, all of which put in at Singapore for fuel and stores.

The stop at Singapore of the tug-towed drydocks is an example of the manner in which the movement of Soviet vessels may be traced.

Track Operator Helped Warren

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—William H. Johnston, Chicago and Florida race track operator, testified today he made contributions to Florida Gov. Warren's 1948 campaign fund in cash because "if he didn't win I didn't want to be identified with it."

He said he turned in about $100,000 for the Warren campaign. Part of this was his own money, he said, and the rest came from his brother, J. R. Johnston, and Max Silverberg, a race track concessionaire.

The testimony was given before the Senate Crime Committee, headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn). It is looking into all phases of gambling and is especially interested in (a) the effect of gambling on local law enforcement, and (b) the interlocking, if any, of gambling interests in major cities.

"What did you expect to get for this contribution," Johnston was asked by committee counsel Rudolph Halley.

"I didn't expect anything," he replied.

Today was Florida day for the committee.

In addition to Johnston, it heard from officials of the S. and G. bookmaking syndicate in Miami Beach, Fla., an outfit that has grossed as high as $26,000,000 a year.

Jules Levitt, one of the six partners in the bookmaking syndicate, said the syndicate closed down two weeks ago and doesn't plan to reopen.

Newspaper publicity, he told the senators, had ruined the once flourishing business. He denied a suggestion that Chicago interests had muscled in on the syndicate a year ago, forcing it to take in a new partner.

Senate Rejects Four Nominees

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP) —The Senate today handed President Truman his worst drubbing of the session on nominations for federal jobs, turning down four men named to major office.

Home state politics was an issue in every case.

They were:

Carroll O. Switzer for Southern Iowa federal judge.

M. Neil Andrews for Northern Georgia federal judge.

Martin A. Hutchinson of Virginia for Federal Trade Commissioner.

Frank E. Hook, former Michigan Democratic representative, for membership on the Motor Carrier Claims Commission.

The votes confirmed earlier signs of a major rebellion in the Senate against the President's job-filling activities.

All four men had gotten a thumbs-down sign from Senate committees after objections to their confirmation were registered by home state senators.

Three were opposed by Democrats and the fourth—Hook—by Republican Sen. Ferguson (Mich).

Jersey Service Stations Closed

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 9 (AP) — Gasoline was scarcer than sugar in New Jersey today as some 4,000 service stations shut up shop in a fight to halt a spreading "price war."

About 3,000 of the stations shut down voluntarily. The strikers said the others were blockaded by pickets in cars who jammed up driveways until the station operators agreed to close.

Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll ordered an investigation. He said he wanted to determine "whether or not the public welfare is in jeopardy." He told the gas dealers he would "expect all members of the industry to act like the responsible businessmen they purport to be."

There were sporadic outbursts of near-violence, but only one arrest was reported.

The shutdown was sparked by the New Jersey Gasoline Retailers Association. John Dressler, president of the Association, took up a position on Route 4 — The big highway approach to the George Washington bridge—and directed the strike.

Doctor-Dentist Draft Bill Is Introduced

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP) — A bill to subject doctors, dentists and other specialists to the draft was introduced in the Senate today by Sen. Gurney (R-SD).

North Koreans

The new attack, following up Wednesday's push on the bridgehead, was temporarily slowed by a red conuterattack. But King said the Americans fought it off and continued their squeeze on the east bank communist pocket.

There was no late report from the front along the Naktong farther north where the first Cavalry Division hammered at a red bridgehead in the Waegwan area, 12 miles narthwest of Taegu.

As the tide began to turn in the Korean war, MacArthur's headquarters said doubt was spreading among red sympathizers and converts that the North Korean army could drive the Americans off the peninsula.

Brainy Students Will Be Deferred

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP) — Selective Service headquarters today authorized draft boards to defer brainy students who have completed at least a year of college and are planning to continue their education this fall.

The policy applies to students who were in the upper half of their classes, scholastically, during the last year in which they attended college.

The regulations are temporary ones, designed to clarify the situation for students who have been planning to go on with their education this fall. New and more permanent policies may be adopted later.

Restrictive Insurance Clause Is Approved

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9 (AP) — The State Insurance Department said today it has approved tentatively a restrictive clause which some life insurance companies want to use in new policies covering men who might be called into military service.

The clause would return only the premiums paid, or the reserve value of the policy "in the event of death while in active military or naval service abroad or within six months following return to this country."

The restriction would not apply to policies already in force. It is similar to one used in policies written during World War II and lifted after 1945.

Deputies OK Transfer Of Leopold's Powers

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Aug. 9 (AP) — The Belgian Chamber of Deputies tonight approved the transfer of King Leopold's constitutional powers to his 19-year-old son, Prince Baudouin.

The count was 165 in favor of the transfer, 27 against and seven abstentions.

The chamber's vote constituted the first stage in the transfer of the powers of Leopold III. Tomorrow the Senate will vote on the measure and on Friday it will be voted by a joint assembly of both houses of parliament.

Baudouin, a quiet bespectacled youth, then is expected to take the oath as prince royal, or regent, on Friday afternoon.

Taylor Trailing In Idaho Race

[By The Associated Press]

Incumbent Glen H. Taylor was still trailing former Sen. D. Worth Clark last night in their see-saw battle for Idaho's Democratic six-year term Senate nomination.

But Clark's lead was cut below 1,000 late yesterday as returns from Tuesday's primary rolled in from outlying districts. Earlier in the day Clark had a margin of over 1,400.

The count in 732 of 839 precincts showed: Clark, 25,590; Taylor, 24,666. A tnird man, Rep. Compton White, had 14,106.

Only small and scattered precincts remained to be tabulated.

The closeness of the race recalled the one in 1944 when an official canvass two weeks after the primary showed Taylor won by only 216 votes.

Only a plurality is necessary to win in Idaho, making a run-off unnecessary.

Returns from Nebraska's Tuesday primary showed another nip-and-tuck race, this one for the Democratic governorship nomination. A state canvassing board may have to decide the winner between former State Legislator Walter R. Raecke and former Rep. Terry Carpenter.

Bill Includes

1952. On the House side the proposal is to end it a year earlier.

Under the House committee's bill the May 24-June 24 period would be a yardstick — but not a mandatory one — for a rollback of prices if the President put on controls. No wages could be pegged at a figure lower than was paid in that period.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9 (AP)—An automobile collided with a baby buggy in a street yesterday.

Another boy was pushing him. The youngsters had found the vehicle and called it their "hot-rod buggy."

Gen. Van Fleet New Second Army Leader

FORT MEADE, Md. Aug. 9 (AP) — Lt. Gen James A. Van Fleet became commanding general of the Second Army today, with administrative control of Army activities in a seven-state area.

He succeeds Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, who retired last week after almost 39 years in the army.

Worst Believed Over In Polio Outbreak

WYTHEVILLE, Va., Aug. 9 (AP) — A state health official said today that "apparently the worst is over" in this Southwest Virginia community's virulent polio outbreak, severest in the nation this year.

No new polio cases were reported today from this town of 5,500 inhabitants and only two cases were listed from 23,000-population Wythe County, the State Health Department said.

Dr. A. S. McCown, director of the State Bureau of Communicable Disease Control, said the epidemic appers to have used most of the susceptibles in the town after striking down more than 80 persons.

The county's toll — listed by the State Health Department at 142 cases, including those from Wytheville — may continue upward, Dr. McCown remarked. All the cases and 15 deaths have been reported since July 1.

[By The Associated Press]

Incumbent Glen H. Taylor was still trailing former Sen. D. Worth Clark last night in their see-saw battle for Idaho's Democratic six-year term Senate nomination.

But Clark's lead was cut below 1,000 late yesterday as returns from Tuesday's primary rolled in from outlying districts. Earlier in the day Clark had a margin of over 1,400.

The count in 732 of 839 precincts showed: Clark, 25,590; Taylor, 24,666. A third man, Rep. Compton White, had 14,106.

Only small and scattered precincts remained to be tabulated.

The closeness of the race recalled the one in 1944 when an official canvass two weeks after the primary showed Taylor won by only 216 votes.

Only a plurality is necessary to win in Idaho, making a run-off unnecessary.

Returns from Nebraska's Tuesday primary showed another nip-and-tuck race, this one for the Democratic governorship nomination. A state canvassing board may have to decide the winner between former State Legislator Walter R. Raecke and former Rep. Terry Carpenter.

Under the House committee's bill the May 24-June 24 period would be a yardstick — but not a mandatory one — for a rollback of prices if the President put on controls. No wages could be pegged at a figure lower than was paid in that period.

Worst Believed Over In Polio Outbreak

WYTHEVILLE, Va., Aug. 9 (AP) — A state health official said today that "apparently the worst is over" in this Southwest Virginia community's virulent polio outbreak, severest in the nation this year.

No new polio cases were reported today from this town of 5,500 inhabitants and only two cases were listed from 23,000-population Wythe County, the State Health Department said.

Dr. A. S. McCown, director of the State Bureau of Communicable Disease Control, said the epidemic appers to have used most of the susceptibles in the town after striking down more than 80 persons.

The county's toll — listed by the State Health Department at 142 cases, including those from Wytheville — may continue upward, Dr. McCown remarked. All the cases and 15 deaths have been reported since July 1.

Any One Of Seven Symptoms Might Be Infantile Paralysis

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK—(AP)—What can you watch for and what can you do about polio?

Twenty-one doctors have agreed on the answers for 1950 for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Any of seven symptoms might be polio. Watch children for these — sore throats — stiff necks — sore muscles — swallowing difficulty — headaches—upset stomachs—fever.

When any of these signs appear, keep the child quiet, and call your doctor. Further, if you need help, call your local chapter of the national foundation.

If the patient has fever, he should be isolated in bed. Isolation is emphasized with fever. In all cases be careful that nose, throat and other discharges are gotten rid of in a sterile manner. These discharges carry polio.

The patient can give the disease to others in the time when he is coming down, before it is known he has polio. This infectious period continues for about the first week after polio has been identified.

Everyone should wash hands with soap before eating, because mouths are the route by which most persons are believed to catch polio. Food does not itself contain polio, so far as now known. But your hands can come in contact with the virus in many ways, and will carry it.

There are four cautions.

One, avoid new groups of people. Although the usual playmates and intimates can spread polio, that situation cannot be avoided.

Cautions two and three are, don't get overtired and don't get chilled. The reason is that you may be a "silent" carrier of polio. There are estimated to be about 200 of these carriers for every person who is sick with infantile paralysis. If you are a carrier, chilling or exhaustion may give the infection a chance to start.

Fourth caution, keep clean. The infection is something that might get smeared on your body.

A rule of common sense has been adopted about crowds. It is impossible to avoid all contacts. The rule offers two guides. One, avoid mixing with new people, especially if they come from an area known to have polio. The other is to avoid crowds where contacts are close.

Swimming, long feared as a cause of polio, is an example of these cautions. Swimming itself is not known to be a cause of polio. Infection in the water is unlikely. But swimming can cause chilling. And most beaches are fine examples of the intimate crowding considered risky, and the mingling with new people.

Closing schools is left to the discretion of local authorities. Often the children in a school belong to a neighborhood knit so closely that they already have been exposed to most of the risks that might come from their classmates. There are exceptions. Schools where children are brought by bus from widely separated areas may become exchanges for spreading polio.

Boarding schools are cautioned to delay opening if there is an outbreak of polio in the school area, to protect children coming to the school from areas where the disease is not prevalent.

There is not much point in closing schools if children are permitted unrestricted access to theatres, picnics, playgrounds, beaches and Sunday schools.

Health officers are asked not to close fairs, circuses, theatres, swimming pools or beaches, but it is urged that children be kept away in epidemic areas.

For summer camps, it is recommended that children should not be admitted from areas where an outbreak exists. If polio breaks out in a camp, the children and staff should remain for 14 days after the last contact with a case before being dismissed, except at the end of camp. Modify camp activities to prevent excessive exercise and group activities.

Prison Labor Clears Site For New Md. State Park

By HARRY WARNER, JR.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 8—(AP)—Prison labor is clearing a half-century's overgrowth at the border of Washington and Frederick counties for the establishment of a new state park.

Historic ground lies under the weeds and brambles. Gathland State Park will cover the land surrounding the unique memorial arch to correspondents of the Civil War, built by the eccentric journalist and author, George Alfred Townsend.

A couple of men from the state reforamtory for males have run off from the work detail, but progress has been made nevertheless around the ruined houses that Townsend built for himself and family. At least on of these homes is ticketed for restoration as part of the park facilities.

State Parks Department officials hope that the combination of spectacular scenery around the site at Champton's Gap and the association with Townsend will lure sightseers, picnickers, and hikers to the park when improvements have been made. Water will be available from Townsend's old well, and the crumbling structures will provide on-the-site building material for shelters.

By coincidence, the park's beginning came at the same time as the first republication of a Townsend book in a half-century. The University of North Carolina press has just released his "Rustics In Rebellion," a collection of Civil War memories, and has quickly sold out its first printing of the new edition.

Townsend was a native of Georgetown, Del., who gained national fame by syndicating Civil War reports in leading newspapers. He didn't cover the fighting in Western Maryland, but after the war turned into a novelist, and first saw the Crampton's Gap area in 1884 while gathering background material for his fiction. He was so impressed that he erected the memorial arch there, then started to build a series of houses.

However, Townsend's intention of settling there permanently was balked by financial reverses, and he died in New York. The estate has been unoccupied since his widow's death.

Gathland, the Park's home, is derived from Townsend's by-line of Gath. Gath was derived from his initials and the Biblical city.

William A. Huster

The sudden death in his office yesterday of former Chief Judge William A. Huster leaves a void in Allegany County, to say nothing of the Republican Party which he so ardently supported for so many years.

Judge Huster was in fact a man who climbed the ladder of success the hard way from a blacksmith shop in Pennsylvania to judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit in Maryland, the latter the highest position the voters of his county, as well as those of Washington and Garrett counties, were able to give him.

It was his "everydayness" and his use of plain good horse sense that made Judge Huster well liked and admired and a man whose advice was sought on many questions.

He had the knack of getting to the crux of a complex problem and making the answer look easy. Anyone brought before him while he was on the bench could feel certain of receiving a fair and impartial hearing. His decisions were tempered always with a full measure of consideration of the human element.

Much of his life Judge Huster devoted to serving the public and its interests and the interests of his country.

As far back as the Mexican war he enlisted as a private in Company G, Maryland Regiment, and served on the Mexican Border, returning home as a sergeant.

He was a captain commanding Company G when World War I broke out and was a major when he returned to Cumberland after the Armistice was signed in 1918.

His ambitions gained for him in a few years appointment as Cumberland city attorney and then in 1923 he was elected state's attorney of Allegany County, the first elective office he held. He was re-elected for three successive terms and then was appointed associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit. In 1938 he was elected to a full term on the bench and was within four years of completing the term when he retired as chief judge at the age of 70.

Judge Huster's retirement, however, was not retirement in its full meaning.

He returned to active practice of the law and in 1948 he was one of four Maryland men named to study State Board of Correction regulations regarding hearings of prisoners on disciplinary charges.

Just last December he was named chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County and this year he became the first chairman of Cumberland's labor-management-citizens committee organized in the interest of industrial peace.

His vigor and his enthusiam in carrying out each new task belied his years.

He was a good judge, a good citizen and a public servant in every sense of the word.

Practical Religion

Citizens of Perry, Oklahoma, have been given a demonstration of practical religion which has left a deep impression on the community. Rev. Jack Wilkes has served as pastor of the Methodist church there for several years, and on the occasion of his transfer to a larger city the Perry Journal recounts some of his achievements while serving the local congregation.

The Journal says he will be remembered there for a long time as the man who got a lot of "wayward males" inside a church. Not that they were sinners, but men who had just neglected to do their worshiping in a church.

Generally known and addressed as Brother Jack, he organized a "Fisherman's class" in Sunday School, the chief attraction of which was his intelligent and understandable talks on the Bible.

He discredited the idea that Sunday School was just a place for juveniles, and soon had his class full of the city's outstanding males, who also remained for the regular service of worship. "He has built the church on a solid rock," the Journal declares, "and the benefits of his endeavors will be reaped here for years to come."

Brother Jack Wilkes is typical of an increasing number of men in the ministry of all denominations who are forwarding the cause of religion through similar methods. They become a part of the community, a man among men, who have something important to sell and do the job effectively without cheapening their product.

Juries, American Plan

Justice is blind and the jury system largely at fault, says Judge Jerome Frank of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. He agrees with the drastic opinion of his colleagues, Judge Learned Hand, that if it were known how juries reached their conclusions not more than one per cent of the verdicts would stand.

Those who have served as jurors will agree with Judge Frank only in part. They will admit that some of their fellow-members have been moved by prejudices which had no bearing on the case in hand. They will also deprecate the common custom of determining the amount of damages to be awarded in a civil suit by adding up the individual estimates and dividing the total by twelve. Yet this method, logically indefensible, often results in a proper figure.

The great merit of the jury system is that a body of laymen often strikes through the technicalities of the court room and reaches a verdict based on common sense. The victims of the so-called "people's courts" in the totalitarian states must often wish that they had been tried before a jury chosen and functioning on the American plan.

Help With Finances

At the University of Pennsylvania a program has been set up to instruct teachers on the establishment of courses on family finance. Budgeting, social security, insurance, pension plans, savings programs, investments and home ownership are covered by this graduate course.

It is becoming more necessary every day for the individual to become informed about financial matters. In the days when every man's pay was his own to disburse as he pleased, and at the same time his future security was also entirely his own responsibility, the ability to think ahead and to add and subtract were the basic essentials for personal economy. Nowadays every financial performance is endlessly complicated, and the security of the home as well as its happiness depends upon such knowledge as will be taught as a result of these courses for teachers. The older generation may never get out of this fog of figures, but their young people will have the advantage of specific instruction.

King Leopold of Belgium offers to quit and turn the job over to his son. Nothing like keeping a throne in the family.

Premature Babies Demand Special Care

BABIES require special care and handling but the premature infant needs "the works." These little tikes are delicate and must be treated accordingly. After all, they weigh less than five pounds and come into the world from one to three months ahead of schedule.

These youngsters have two strikes against them at birth but with the proper attention they often do just as well as those born at full term. They develop more slowly, take longer to walk and talk, but they get there. History has demonstrated repeatedly that "premies" have normal mentality and many become geniuses.

The incubator has proved to be a lifesaving measure for the premature infant. In larger cities portable incubators are available for such youngsters who are born at home. Generally these are used to transport the child to the hospital where more adequate care is ready. The device not only supplies oxygen but also heat to keep the child warm. The heat regulating mechanism is poorly developed and excessive amounts are lost due to lack of fat under the skin. Furthermore, breathing is weak and shallow. There is little immunity to infection and a slight cold may cause death. It is no wonder that caution must be exercised. The incubator is equipped with a heating unit which is governed by a thermostat to maintain an even temperature. The smaller tike usually requires 90 degrees F.; those who are heavier need less and may do well in 80 degrees F. Each machine has a window, air inlets and outlets, mattress, oxygen, and humidity attachments, and thermometer. It is a small air conditioned room containing a bed.

Those who have the responsibility of these children stress the importance of less handling, the better. After all, every time the incubator is opened there is a possibility of transmitting an infection. The child's position, however, must be changed at regular intervals because it lessens the chance of developing pneumonia. It is struggling to live and needs all the help that is obtainable.

Feeding is a problem for these early arrivals. If the child is too weak to nurse from the mother, artificial feedings are utilized. breast milk is preferred and as a rule the mother is taught to express her own milk every four hours. This is collected in a sterile cup or glass and fed to the baby from a medicine dropper or a special 1-ounce nursing bottle. Many have difficulty in swallowing and in the circumstances the process is slow and tedious.

Prematures are fed every three hours because they demand more food than the average newborn; they must grow faster to reach normal size. Occasionally a stomach tube is necessary, especially when the sucking and swallowing mechanism is too weak. Cod liver oil and orange juice also are included in the menu.

Tomorrow: A new drug helpful against tuberculosis.

INFECTION AND WEIGHT

Mrs. N. L. writes: Does a chronic infection in the body affect a child's growth?

REPLY

Yes, but during convalescence many youngsters regain what they have lost. Growth also is affected during the course of an acute infection such as ordinary cold or sinusitis. This is most noticeable in children who have one respiratory infection after another during the winter time.

HE SHAKES

Mr. J. M. writes: What causes tremors? They occur in the lower back, legs and arms. I feel as tho something were jerking my body.

REPLY

Nervous reactions, neurological disorders, or chills must be considered. The latter are produced by infections such as malaria or inflammation of the kidney.

•—•—•

RETAINED FLUID

Mrs. O. writes: My husband has water in his ankles. Where does it come from?

REPLY

From the blood stream and tissue spaces. A large proportion of the body is water and in this respect we resemble other animals and plants.

PENICILLIN IN CANCER

E. T. writes: Are they using penicillin in cancer?

REPLY

Yes, in experimental animals. But the results of this and other antibiotics have been largely negative so far.

KNOBBY FINGERS

F. T. writes: Are typist more likely than other women to develop knobs on the fingers?

REPLY

No. In this condition, age plays a greater role than occupation.

Mrs. N. J. writes: Will an asthmatic have difficulty taking an anesthetic before surgery?

REPLY

Possibly, and for this reason the anesthetic must be selected carefully.

Stalin Was Forewarned Of U. S. Action On Korea; John Steelman Will Head Up Economic Controls Program; U. S. Plans New Super-Tanks

—Say TOM McNAMARA and JACK ANDERSON

EDITOR'S NOTE—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by members of his staff.

WASHINGTON—One of the untold stories of the Korean war is that Joe Stalin had a blunt forewarning from President Truman that he wouldn't put up with any more Soviet shenanigans—in Korea or anywhere else.

The ultimatum was relayed by Trygve Lie, U. N. secretary-general, when he visited Moscow just before the Korean outbreak. Lie wanted to work out a "peace" formula whereby we would recognize Communist China as a member of the United Nations if Stalin, in turn, agreed to call off the cold war.

However, Truman flatly rejected this proposal when the U. N. official sounded him out before leaving for Moscow. The President said he was willing to meet Stalin halfway on "honorable" grounds, but not as an appeaser.

Somewhat crestfallen, Lie asked as the conference broke up: "Mr. President, is there any message you would like me to give to Generalissimo Stalin?"

"No," replied Truman.

Then he added, crisply: "Yes, tell the Generalissimo that the only thing we want from him is peace. Also, tell him that the United States will take no more pushing around anywhere he tries it."

That was one month before the Korean invasion.

Unexpected Coordinator

Top coordinator of the economic controls program will not be Stuart Symington, chief of the National Securities Resources Board, as generally believed, but John R. Steelman, assistant to the President.

Symington, a man of action who doesn't hesitate to tread on toes to get a job done, stepped too many times on the large brogans of Defense Secretary Louis Johnson. As a result, Johnson vigorously protested to the White House when he heard that Symington was being considered for the coordinator post.

Another cabinet member who dislikes the NSRB chief and who helped put the Indian sign on him is Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer.

"If I am to do a responsible job administering my part of the controls program, I must have authority," Sawyer notified the White House. "That's impossible with Symington breathing down my neck."

So, rather than cause a ruckus, Truman will assign Steelman to do the coordinating, with Symington functioning as No. 1 adviser and trouble-shooter. Other assistant coordinators will be Budget Director Fred Lawton and Leon Keyserling, chairman of the President's Economic Council.

Truman Trivia

Though President Truman does not object to smoking, he won't touch tobacco in any form . . . He insists on being on time for all appointments and warns his tardy assistants that "it's an insult to be late." . . . Truman has gone overboard for television, has three sets in Blair House, one in his office and even one on board his yacht . . . The President takes a swim in the White House pool every morning before breakfast . . . He doesn't like air conditioning. In fact, his office is the only space in the White House that isn't artificially cooled . . . Despite the terrible pressure of his job, the President maintains a uniformly calm and friendly manner throughout each hectic day. Only outward sign of tension is an occasional unconscious wringing of the Presidential hands . . . If any would-be assassin ever manages to break through the ring of alert Secret Service agents guarding the Chief Executive, the assassin will be in for the surprise of his life from Harry Truman. The exact nature of the President's "secret weapon," however, can't be told . . . When the First Lady is in town, Mr. T. quits work at 5 p. m. sharp and heads for Blair House. When Mrs. Truman is out of town, the White House staff never knows when the boss will call it quits for the day.

Super-Tanks

Despite what the brass hats are telling Congress, it will be another year before American production lines start rolling out tanks that can duel with Russia's 60-ton metal monsters.

These new super-tanks will come in three sizes. Only the smallest, however, is ready for production and will soon start rolling off the Cadillac assembly line. Of course, this junior model is no match for the Soviet 60-tonners, and its big brothers are still in the test-model stage and wont' be ready for production until next year.

Meanwhile, the Army has five grades of tanks. The smallest are classified simply as "X." First to arrive in Korea, these baby tanks crumpled like eggshells beneath the advancing Red army's tanks.

The next lowest grades, Sherman I and Sherman II tanks, are now arriving in Korea, and the Marines are spearheaded by still a larger tank, the Pershing. Yet our biggest and best tank, the Patton, still hasn't reached the battlefront.

Meanwhile, the Army is hastily converting Pershing into Patton tanks as a stop-gap measure, but even the Patton is a tin can alongside Russia's mighty Stalin tank.

No Ban On Baseball

President Truman has assured Baseball Commissioner "Happy" Chandler that the government plans no ban or controls on the national sport. Chandler called on the President recently to discuss baseball's war role.

"I didn't come over here to ask any favors, but to offer the services of our national sport, including myself, to the war effort," Chandler declared. "If there is any way we can help out, let us know."

Truman replied that he would put the former Kentucky senator, a reservist, "on top of my list, if we need you," but added:

"Happy, you're doing a great job for the country right where you are and I would like to see you stay there. The same goes for the sport you represent. It would be most unwise at this time to curtail it in any way and I have no intentions of doing so."

Chandler reported that no major league ballplayers were seeking deferments, other than for justifiable reasons applying to all men of draft age.

A New Look At Tito

WASHINGTON.

THE minor Soviet satellite state of Bulgaria is about as strong in ground forces as the United States, according to the most recent and most reliable intelligence estimates. This wholly unamusing commentary on the extent of American disarmament suggests one reason why Yugoslavia is now moving up towards first place, in the official speculation on where the Kremlin is most likely to strike next.

An attack on Yugoslavia by the satellite Bulgarian, Hungarian, and Rumanian armies has been considered on balance unlikely simply because it has been generally assumed that Marshal Tito's tough troops could rather easily deal with such an attack. Since Korea set the pattern, however, the military experts have been having a good hard look at this complacent assumption. And what they have found is anything but reassuring.

The Bulgarian ground troops consist of ten fully manned and fully equipped divisions, including on earmored division, or almost exactly the Korea day strength of the American ground forces. (It is true that satellite divisions are smaller, but it is also true that the American divisions on Korea day had been reduced to about 75 per cent of full strength). The Hungarians and Rumanians have another twelve divisions between them, including another armored division, for a total of twenty-three divisions among the three satellites.

Outnumber Western Forces

Again for purposes of comparison, the entire ground strength available for the defense of Western Europe now consists of twelve under-manned divisions (including two American) or hardly more than half the ground forces of the three eastern European satellites. These satellite armies, moreover, are equipped with between 700 and 800 of the T-34 Russian tanks which are now mauling the American forces in Korea, plus a smaller number of good German World War II models.

The three satellites also have adequate ground support aircraft, Yaks, Stormoviks, and other models generously supplied by their Russian masters. The Bulgarians, for example, have a 64,000-man air force, with 200 front-line planes, and the other satellites have comparable air strength.

On the other side, Marshal Tito can put into the field about thirty divisions. This number of divisions, larger than the total for the three neighboring satellites, explains the assumption that the satellites could not defeat Tito without direct intervention by the Red army. But especially since Korea, it has become obvious that Tito suffers from grave counter-balancing disadvantages.

One of these is suggested by the simple facts of geography. Yugoslavia is hemmed in by the three satellites in a giant arc, and the long Yugoslav frontier cannot possibly be defended at all points. Moreover, Belgrade, the Yugoslav capital and the only important industrial center, stands in an open plain, invitingly close to the satellite frontiers. With Belgrade lost, Tito would be reduced to fighting an indecisive guerrilla war in the mountains.

Tito's Grave Problem

Yet even graver is Tito's replacement problem. Like the other satellites Tito's army is equipped, from pistols to tanks, with Russian arms, for which he can now get no replacements. The loss of a couple of spare parts, after all, can immobilize a tank or ground a plane, and the normal peacetime attrition rate has undoubtedly already reduced Tito's fighting strength. War would immensely accelerate this process, and while Tito was running out of everything, from tanks to ammunition, the satellites could draw on the inexhaustible Soviet reserves.

These are some of the reasons why reports that the satellite armies, (especially the Bulgarian army) are moving up to the frontiers, are taken more seriously than ever before. Tito and his lieutenants still assure Western observers that they do not consider an attack imminent. Yet such assurances have an uncomfortably familiar sound, especially since Korea. And Tito himself has taken the precaution of cancelling leaves and discharges.

In such circumstances, the logic of his situation will sooner or later force Tito to ask for armed aid from the West, simply because he cannot afford to grow constantly weaker while his potential enemies grow stronger. There are those who argue that arms aid for Tito would in itself impel the Kremlin to attack.

Yet if the revised estimates are correct, and the satellites have an excellent chance of defeating Tito's army, there can be only one reason for the Kremlin to hold back. That is the fear of a general war A general war would, in fact, inevitably follow an attack on Yugoslavia, by the remorseless logic of events, unless the West were prepared to see a crumbling away of all powers of resistance on the continent. The best way to avert an attack is thus to make it abundantly clear to the Kremlin that such an attack will be the point of no return. And the best way to do this is to let Tito have whatever he needs to discourage a satellite assault on Yugoslavia.

Commie Political Activity Poses Serious Problem

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—President Truman has wisely come out in favor of legislation which would require registration of all "persons who have received instruction from a foreign government or political party in espionage or subversive tactics."

This is in the main what the bill sponsored by two Republicans — Senator Mundt of South Dakota and Representative Nixon of California —has heretofore proposed but it is the first important step taken by the administration to recognize the need for new laws to combat the Communist movements in this country.

There are various bills of a restrictive nature pending and the President's message takes a crack at this proposed legislation as "so broad and vague in its terms as to endanger the freedoms of speech, press, and assembly protected by the First Amendment."

It is a matter of debate, however, whether Mr. Truman's characterization itself is not rather broad. For the truth is Congress is deeply concerned about the unrestricted way in which Communists operate in America, and many members feel that the effort to squelch communistic activity should be encouraged rather than discouraged. The President, without differentiating between the various proposals, says this:

Disputable Statement

"Some of the proposed measures would, in effect, impose severe penalties for normal political activities on the part of certain groups, including Communists and Communist party-line followers. This kind of legislation is unnecessary, ineffective, and dangerous. It is unnecessary because groups such as the Communists cannot accomplish their evil purposes in this country through normal political activity. They will be repudiated by the people as they have always been."

The foregoing statement will be disputed. Why, it will be asked, should any Communist group be permitted to engage in "normal political activity" or in any other kind of deceptive operation which is a camouflage for its real purposes? The right to be on the ballot is reserved to parties that are American and are not in any way tied up with foreign governments or foreign instruction of any kind. It is not necessary to single out just the Communists in the proposed law but to apply the rule to any political party that is connected with any foreign government.

The Communists, to be sure, cannot win any substantial number of votes, but the mere fact that they are permitted on the ballot or allowed to have political demonstrations enables them to maintain small organizational units which can carry on espionage. It takes only a small number to infiltrate a labor union and bring on a strike or frustrate a settlement in key industries. To forbid normal political machinery or the benefits of free speech to foreign spies is not to transgress the Constitution. The courts have decided this, and only last week the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals said it plainly indeed in its decision upholding the conviction of Communist party leaders in this country.

What is overlooked is the fact that the communists are all tied up in one conspiracy. No better explanation of this has been given than in the answers made this very week by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report." Here is an excerpt in point:

"Q. Do you think, Mr. Hoover, that communists are basically agents of a foreign country, or do you draw a distinction between those who are philosophical communists and those who are tools of the communist spy ring?

"A. The teachings of communism are directed toward one final result —world revolution and the triumph of international communism. The achievement of this aim would mean the violent and complete destruction of the American government. Any person who subscribes to these teachings, regardless of his reason, is working against American democracy and for the benefit of international communism's chief leader, Soviet Russia. The 'philosophical communist' who advocates Marxism-Leninism might just as well be working as an agent of a foreign power because he is aiding its cause. He is, in fact, however, being 'played for sucker" by the communists, who consider him a "dupe," a person not to be trusted but only to be used and then discarded.

Allegiance To Moscow

"Q. Do your investigations show that the basic allegiance of a communist is to a foreign government rather than our own government?

"A. Most emphatically...The ultimate loyalty of fully indoctrinated communist party members is to Moscow... It may mouth sweet words of 'peace,' 'democracy,' 'equality,' and flourish gay slogans of 'international solidarity' and 'brotherhood of men,' but its body and feet are from the Russian Bear. Wherever the Trojan Horse of communist fifth columns have walked, the indelible footprints of Russian imperialism remain behind."

The foregoing expresses a growing conviction in Congress, too —that the communist party isn't a political party at all but fifth-column agency which cannot be allowed to use American political activities as a protective device of constitutionality where by the Constitution itself is to be destroyed.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Next Phase

GENERAL Douglas MacArthur has to accept, as any commander must, the commitments made by the civilians of his government in the period precedent to actual warfare. In a word, he can by military action undo the errors of the past only at great cost of life and material. The most costly error in judgment in our history has been the complex of events in Asia, engineered by the Alger Hiss group in the State Department, which gave China to Soviet Russia.

To understand this, it must be realized that Soviet Russia's success and prestige in Asia depend upon her ability to dispose of Nationalist China and to impose Soviet China upon the United Nations. Out of Soviet China, Russia hopes to conquer French Indo-China, Burma and the Philippines. Ultimately this would lead to the collapse of MacArthur's position in Japan and the total elimination of the United States from the Continent of Asia.

As a practical military measure, this would make the West Coast of the United States our first line of defense. The State Department has taken the position since 1943 (Teheran) that this was inevitable. They therefore abandoned Chiang Kai-Shek; separated Korea from the Japan command; conducted a campaign to undermine General MacArthur, and gave practically no assistance to Korea and immaterial aid to the Philippines. In spite of decisions of Congress, the State Department went its way.

If the State Department program was correct (which it never was) the Navy was of little avail and therefore it was put in mothballs. If the State Department prevailed (as it did), such an organization as the Marines was of little value, for the next war was to have been an atomic war across the North Pole.

Chiang Kai-Shek spoiled the program of Soviet Russia and the State Department by refusing to fold up and die. Against him, this government conducted a vile propaganda based upon the corruption of his officials, all of which is nonsense as all Oriental officials may be regarded as corrupt by the rigid standards in vogue in some but not all parts of the United States. The separation between the public and private purse is a fairly recent innovation in Western countries, and is evaded by various devices, even in Kansas City, Mo.

Chiang held on to two things: the island of Formosa and a seat in the United Nations. And as long as he had those, the state Department and Soviet Russia could not liquidate the American position in Asia.

For while this country officially abandoned Chiang, nevertheless, through the insistence of General Douglas MacArthur, and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and General A. C. Wedemeyer, to mention only officials, the American people came to realize that Formosa was the key to the Japan - Philippines-Okinawa line. It became a political liability to evacuate that line. All the hubbub between Senator Joe McCarthy and Senator Millard Tydings, involving the self-anointed martyr, Owen Lattimore, was over this question.

The pressure of Soviet China upon Soviet Russia to liquidate Chiang and to remove Nationalist China from the United Nations must have been terrific. Molotov, for instance, is reported from China to have been in Peiping on and off for most of a year. All the rumors that Mao Tze-Tung might become a Tito were associate with this problem. For as long as Chiang remained in Formosa and held a seat in the United Nations, Mao was losing face in China and was involved in costly and unexpected guerilla warfare.

So Soviet Russia, on January 13, started a boycott of the United Nations. When that did not work, Marshal Malinovsky,

William A. Huster

The sudden death in his office yesterday of former Chief Judge William A. Huster leaves a void in Allegany County, to say nothing of the Republican Party which he so ardently supported for so many years.

Judge Huster was in fact a man who climbed the ladder of success the hard way from a blacksmith shop in Pennsylvania to judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit in Maryland, the latter the highest position the voters of his county, as well as those of Washington and Garrett counties, were able to give him.

It was his "everydayness" and his use of plain good horse sense that made Judge Huster well liked and admired and a man whose advice was sought on many questions.

He had the knack of getting to the crux of a complex problem and making the answer look easy. Anyone brought before him while he was on the bench could feel certain of receiving a fair and impartial hearing. His decisions were tempered always with a full measure of consideration of the human element.

Much of his life Judge Huster devoted to serving the public and its interests and the interests of his country.

As far back as the Mexican war he enlisted as a private in Company G, Maryland Regiment, and served on the Mexican Border, returning home as a sergeant.

He was a captain commanding Company G when World War I broke out and was a major when he returned to Cumberland after the Armistice was signed in 1918.

His ambitions gained for him in a few years appointment as Cumberland city attorney and then in 1923 he was elected state's attorney of Allegany County, the first elective office he held. He was re-elected for three successive terms and then was appointed associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit. In 1938 he was elected to a full term on the bench and was within four years of completing the term when he retired as chief judge at the age of 70.

Judge Huster's retirement, however, was not retirement in its full meaning.

He returned to active practice of the law and in 1948 he was one of four Maryland men named to study State Board of Correction regulations regarding hearings of prisoners on disciplinary charges.

Just last December he was named chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County and this year he became the first chairman of Cumberland's labor-management-citizens committee organized in the interest of industrial peace.

His vigor and his enthusiam in carrying out each new task belied his years.

He was a good judge, a good citizen and a public servant in every sense of the word.

Practical Religion

Citizens of Perry, Oklahoma, have been given a demonstration of practical religion which has left a deep impression on the community. Rev. Jack Wilkes has served as pastor of the Methodist church there for several years, and on the occasion of his transfer to a larger city the Perry Journal recounts some of his achievements while serving the local congregation.

The Journal says he will be remembered there for a long time as the man who got a lot of "wayward males" inside a church. Not that they were sinners, but men who had just neglected to do their worshiping in a church.

Generally known and addressed as Brother Jack, he organized a "Fisherman's class" in Sunday School, the chief attraction of which was his intelligent and understandable talks on the Bible.

He discredited the idea that Sunday School was just a place for juveniles, and soon had his class full of the city's outstanding males, who also remained for the regular service of worship. "He has built the church on a solid rock," the Journal declares, "and the benefits of his endeavors will be reaped here for years to come."

Brother Jack Wilkes is typical of an increasing number of men in the ministry of all denominations who are forwarding the cause of religion through similar methods. They become a part of the community, a man among men, who have something important to sell and do the job effectively without cheapening their product.

Juries, American Plan

Justice is blind and the jury system largely at fault, says Judge Jerome Frank of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. He agrees with the drastic opinion of his colleagues, Judge Learned Hand, that if it were known how juries reached their conclusions not more than one per cent of the verdicts would stand.

Those who have served as jurors will agree with Judge Frank only in part. They will admit that some of their fellow-members have been moved by prejudices which had no bearing on the case in hand. They will also deprecate the common custom of determining the amount of damages to be awarded in a civil suit by adding up the individual estimates and dividing the total by twelve. Yet this method, logically indefensible, often results in a proper figure.

The great merit of the jury system is that a body of laymen often strikes through the technicalities of the court room and reaches a verdict based on common sense. The victims of the so-called "people's courts" in the totalitarian states must often wish that they had been tried before a jury chosen and functioning on the American plan.

Help With Finances

At the University of Pennsylvania a program has been set up to instruct teachers on the establishment of courses on family finance. Budgeting, social security, insurance, pension plans, savings programs, investments and home ownership are covered by this graduate course.

It is becoming more necessary every day for the individual to become informed about financial matters. In the days when every man's pay was his own to disburse as he pleased, and at the same time his future security was also entirely his own responsibility, the ability to think ahead and to add and subtract were the basic essentials for personal economy. Nowadays every financial performance is endlessly complicated, and the security of the home as well as its happiness depends upon such knowledge as will be taught as a result of these courses for teachers. The older generation may never get out of this fog of figures, but their young people will have the advantage of specific instruction.

King Leopold of Belgium offers to quit and turn the job over to his son. Nothing like keeping a throne in the family.

However, Truman flatly rejected this proposal when the U. N. official sounded him out before leaving for Moscow. The President said he was willing to meet Stalin halfway on "honorable" grounds, but not as an appeaser.

Somewhat crestfallen, Lie asked as the conference broke up: "Mr. President, is there any message you would like me to give to Generalissimo Stalin?"

"No," replied Truman.

Then he added, crisply: "Yes, tell the Generalissimo that the only thing we want from him is peace. Also, tell him that the United States will take no more pushing around anywhere he tries it."

That was one month before the Korean invasion.

Unexpected Coordinator

Top coordinator of the economic controls program will not be Stuart Symington, chief of the National Securities Resources Board, as generally believed, but John R. Steelman, assistant to the President.

Symington, a man of action who doesn't hesitate to tread on toes to get a job done, stepped too many times on the large brogans of Defense Secretary Louis Johnson. As a result, Johnson vigorously protested to the White House when he heard that Symington was being considered for the coordinator post.

Another cabinet member who dislikes the NSRB chief and who helped put the Indian sign on him is Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer.

"If I am to do a responsible job administering my part of the controls program, I must have authority," Sawyer notified the White House. "That's impossible with Symington breathing down my neck."

So, rather than cause a ruckus, Truman will assign Steelman to do the coordinating, with Symington functioning as No. 1 adviser and trouble-shooter. Other assistant coordinators will be Budget Director Fred Lawton and Leon Keyserling, chairman of the President's Economic Council.

Truman Trivia

Though President Truman does not object to smoking, he won't touch tobacco in any form . . . He insists on being on time for all appointments and warns his tardy assistants that "it's an insult to be late." . . . Truman has gone overboard for television, has three sets in Blair House, one in his office and even one on board his yacht . . . The President takes a swim in the White House pool every morning before breakfast . . . He doesn't like air conditioning. In fact, his office is the only space in the White House that isn't artificially cooled . . . Despite the terrible pressure of his job, the President maintains a uniformly calm and friendly manner throughout each hectic day. Only outward sign of tension is an occasional unconscious wringing of the Presidential hands . . . If any would-be assassin ever manages to break through the ring of alert Secret Service agents guarding the Chief Executive, the assassin will be in for the surprise of his life from Harry Truman. The exact nature of the President's "secret weapon," however, can't be told . . . When the First Lady is in town, Mr. T. quits work at 5 p. m. sharp and heads for Blair House. When Mrs. Truman is out of town, the White House staff never knows when the boss will call it quits for the day.

Super-Tanks

Despite what the brass hats are telling Congress, it will be another year before American production lines start rolling out tanks that can duel with Russia's 60-ton metal monsters.

These new super-tanks will come in three sizes. Only the smallest, however, is ready for production and will soon start rolling off the Cadillac assembly line. Of course, this junior model is no match for the Soviet 60-tonners, and its big brothers are still in the test-model stage and wont' be ready for production until next year.

Meanwhile, the Army has five grades of tanks. The smallest are classified simply as "X." First to arrive in Korea, these baby tanks crumpled like eggshells beneath the advancing Red army's tanks.

The next lowest grades, Sherman I and Sherman II tanks, are now arriving in Korea, and the Marines are spearheaded by still a larger tank, the Pershing. Yet our biggest and best tank, the Patton, still hasn't reached the battlefront.

Meanwhile, the Army is hastily converting Pershing into Patton tanks as a stop-gap measure, but even the Patton is a tin can alongside Russia's mighty Stalin tank.

No Ban On Baseball

President Truman has assured Baseball Commissioner "Happy" Chandler that the government plans no ban or controls on the national sport. Chandler called on the President recently to discuss baseball's war role.

"I didn't come over here to ask any favors, but to offer the services of our national sport, including myself, to the war effort," Chandler declared. "If there is any way we can help out, let us know."

Truman replied that he would put the former Kentucky senator, a reservist, "on top of my list, if we need you," but added:

"Happy, you're doing a great job for the country right where you are and I would like to see you stay there. The same goes for the sport you represent. It would be most unwise at this time to curtail it in any way and I have no intentions of doing so."

Chandler reported that no major league ballplayers were seeking deferments, other than for justifiable reasons applying to all men of draft age.

A New Look At Tito

WASHINGTON.

THE minor Soviet satellite state of Bulgaria is about as strong in ground forces as the United States, according to the most recent and most reliable intelligence estimates. This wholly unamusing commentary on the extent of American disarmament suggests one reason why Yugoslavia is now moving up towards first place, in the official speculation on where the Kremlin is most likely to strike next.

An attack on Yugoslavia by the satellite Bulgarian, Hungarian, and Rumanian armies has been considered on balance unlikely simply because it has been generally assumed that Marshal Tito's tough troops could rather easily deal with such an attack. Since Korea set the pattern, however, the military experts have been having a good hard look at this complacent assumption. And what they have found is anything but reassuring.

The Bulgarian ground troops consist of ten fully manned and fully equipped divisions, including on earmored division, or almost exactly the Korea day strength of the American ground forces. (It is true that satellite divisions are smaller, but it is also true that the American divisions on Korea day had been reduced to about 75 per cent of full strength). The Hungarians and Rumanians have another twelve divisions between them, including another armored division, for a total of twenty-three divisions among the three satellites.

Outnumber Western Forces

Again for purposes of comparison, the entire ground strength available for the defense of Western Europe now consists of twelve under-manned divisions (including two American) or hardly more than half the ground forces of the three eastern European satellites. These satellite armies, moreover, are equipped with between 700 and 800 of the T-34 Russian tanks which are now mauling the American forces in Korea, plus a smaller number of good German World War II models.

The three satellites also have adequate ground support aircraft, Yaks, Stormoviks, and other models generously supplied by their Russian masters. The Bulgarians, for example, have a 64,000-man air force, with 200 front-line planes, and the other satellites have comparable air strength.

On the other side, Marshal Tito can put into the field about thirty divisions. This number of divisions, larger than the total for the three neighboring satellites, explains the assumption that the satellites could not defeat Tito without direct intervention by the Red army. But especially since Korea, it has become obvious that Tito suffers from grave counter-balancing disadvantages.

One of these is suggested by the simple facts of geography. Yugoslavia is hemmed in by the three satellites in a giant arc, and the long Yugoslav frontier cannot possibly be defended at all points. Moreover, Belgrade, the Yugoslav capital and the only important industrial center, stands in an open plain, invitingly close to the satellite frontiers. With Belgrade lost, Tito would be reduced to fighting an indecisive guerrilla war in the mountains.

Tito's Grave Problem

Yet even graver is Tito's replacement problem. Like the other satellites Tito's army is equipped, from pistols to tanks, with Russian arms, for which he can now get no replacements. The loss of a couple of spare parts, after all, can immobilize a tank or ground a plane, and the normal peacetime attrition rate has undoubtedly already reduced Tito's fighting strength. War would immensely accelerate this process, and while Tito was running out of everything, from tanks to ammunition, the satellites could draw on the inexhaustible Soviet reserves.

These are some of the reasons why reports that the satellite armies, (especially the Bulgarian army) are moving up to the frontiers, are taken more seriously than ever before. Tito and his lieutenants still assure Western observers that they do not consider an attack imminent. Yet such assurances have an uncomfortably familiar sound, especially since Korea. And Tito himself has taken the precaution of cancelling leaves and discharges.

In such circumstances, the logic of his situation will sooner or later force Tito to ask for armed aid from the West, simply because he cannot afford to grow constantly weaker while his potential enemies grow stronger. There are those who argue that arms aid for Tito would in itself impel the Kremlin to attack.

Yet if the revised estimates are correct, and the satellites have an excellent chance of defeating Tito's army, there can be only one reason for the Kremlin to hold back. That is the fear of a general war A general war would, in fact, inevitably follow an attack on Yugoslavia, by the remorseless logic of events, unless the West were prepared to see a crumbling away of all powers of resistance on the continent. The best way to avert an attack is thus to make it abundantly clear to the Kremlin that such an attack will be the point of no return. And the best way to do this is to let Tito have whatever he needs to discourage a satellite assault on Yugoslavia.

Commie Political Activity Poses Serious Problem

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—President Truman has wisely come out in favor of legislation which would require registration of all "persons who have received instruction from a foreign government or political party in espionage or subversive tactics."

This is in the main what the bill sponsored by two Republicans — Senator Mundt of South Dakota and Representative Nixon of California —has heretofore proposed but it is the first important step taken by the administration to recognize the need for new laws to combat the Communist movements in this country.

There are various bills of a restrictive nature pending and the President's message takes a crack at this proposed legislation as "so broad and vague in its terms as to endanger the freedoms of speech, press, and assembly protected by the First Amendment."

It is a matter of debate, however, whether Mr. Truman's characterization itself is not rather broad. For the truth is Congress is deeply concerned about the unrestricted way in which Communists operate in America, and many members feel that the effort to squelch communistic activity should be encouraged rather than discouraged. The President, without differentiating between the various proposals, says this:

Disputable Statement

"Some of the proposed measures would, in effect, impose severe penalties for normal political activities on the part of certain groups, including Communists and Communist party-line followers. This kind of legislation is unnecessary, ineffective, and dangerous. It is unnecessary because groups such as the Communists cannot accomplish their evil purposes in this country through normal political activity. They will be repudiated by the people as they have always been."

The foregoing statement will be disputed. Why, it will be asked, should any Communist group be permitted to engage in "normal political activity" or in any other kind of deceptive operation which is a camouflage for its real purposes? The right to be on the ballot is reserved to parties that are American and are not in any way tied up with foreign governments or foreign instruction of any kind. It is not necessary to single out just the Communists in the proposed law but to apply the rule to any political party that is connected with any foreign government.

The Communists, to be sure, cannot win any substantial number of votes, but the mere fact that they are permitted on the ballot or allowed to have political demonstrations enables them to maintain small organizational units which can carry on espionage. It takes only a small number to infiltrate a labor union and bring on a strike or frustrate a settlement in key industries. To forbid normal political machinery or the benefits of free speech to foreign spies is not to transgress the Constitution. The courts have decided this, and only last week the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals said it plainly indeed in its decision upholding the conviction of Communist party leaders in this country.

What is overlooked is the fact that the communists are all tied up in one conspiracy. No better explanation of this has been given than in the answers made this very week by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report." Here is an excerpt in point:

"Q. Do you think, Mr. Hoover, that communists are basically agents of a foreign country, or do you draw a distinction between those who are philosophical communists and those who are tools of the communist spy ring?

"A. The teachings of communism are directed toward one final result —world revolution and the triumph of international communism. The achievement of this aim would mean the violent and complete destruction of the American government. Any person who subscribes to these teachings, regardless of his reason, is working against American democracy and for the benefit of international communism's chief leader, Soviet Russia. The 'philosophical communist' who advocates Marxism-Leninism might just as well be working as an agent of a foreign power because he is aiding its cause. He is, in fact, however, being 'played for sucker" by the communists, who consider him a "dupe," a person not to be trusted but only to be used and then discarded.

Allegiance To Moscow

"Q. Do your investigations show that the basic allegiance of a communist is to a foreign government rather than our own government?

"A. Most emphatically...The ultimate loyalty of fully indoctrinated communist party members is to Moscow... It may mouth sweet words of 'peace,' 'democracy,' 'equality,' and flourish gay slogans of 'international solidarity' and 'brotherhood of men,' but its body and feet are from the Russian Bear. Wherever the Trojan Horse of communist fifth columns have walked, the indelible footprints of Russian imperialism remain behind."

The foregoing expresses a growing conviction in Congress, too —that the communist party isn't a political party at all but fifth-column agency which cannot be allowed to use American political activities as a protective device of constitutionality where by the Constitution itself is to be destroyed.

These Days

The Next Phase

GENERAL Douglas MacArthur has to accept, as any commander must, the commitments made by the civilians of his government in the period precedent to actual warfare. In a word, he can by military action undo the errors of the past only at great cost of life and material. The most costly error in judgment in our history has been the complex of events in Asia, engineered by the Alger Hiss group in the State Department, which gave China to Soviet Russia.

To understand this, it must be realized that Soviet Russia's success and prestige in Asia depend upon her ability to dispose of Nationalist China and to impose Soviet China upon the United Nations. Out of Soviet China, Russia hopes to conquer French Indo-China, Burma and the Philippines. Ultimately this would lead to the collapse of MacArthur's position in Japan and the total elimination of the United States from the Continent of Asia.

As a practical military measure, this would make the West Coast of the United States our first line of defense. The State Department has taken the position since 1943 (Teheran) that this was inevitable. They therefore abandoned Chiang Kai-Shek; separated Korea from the Japan command; conducted a campaign to undermine General MacArthur, and gave practically no assistance to Korea and immaterial aid to the Philippines. In spite of decisions of Congress, the State Department went its way.

If the State Department program was correct (which it never was) the Navy was of little avail and therefore it was put in mothballs. If the State Department prevailed (as it did), such an organization as the Marines was of little value, for the next war was to have been an atomic war across the North Pole.

Chiang Kai-Shek spoiled the program of Soviet Russia and the State Department by refusing to fold up and die. Against him, this government conducted a vile propaganda based upon the corruption of his officials, all of which is nonsense as all Oriental officials may be regarded as corrupt by the rigid standards in vogue in some but not all parts of the United States. The separation between the public and private purse is a fairly recent innovation in Western countries, and is evaded by various devices, even in Kansas City, Mo.

Chiang held on to two things: the island of Formosa and a seat in the United Nations. And as long as he had those, the state Department and Soviet Russia could not liquidate the American position in Asia.

For while this country officially abandoned Chiang, nevertheless, through the insistence of General Douglas MacArthur, and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and General A. C. Wedemeyer, to mention only officials, the American people came to realize that Formosa was the key to the Japan - Philippines-Okinawa line. It became a political liability to evacuate that line. All the hubbub between Senator Joe McCarthy and Senator Millard Tydings, involving the self-anointed martyr, Owen Lattimore, was over this question.

The pressure of Soviet China upon Soviet Russia to liquidate Chiang and to remove Nationalist China from the United Nations must have been terrific. Molotov, for instance, is reported from China to have been in Peiping on and off for most of a year. All the rumors that Mao Tze-Tung might become a Tito were associate with this problem. For as long as Chiang remained in Formosa and held a seat in the United Nations, Mao was losing face in China and was involved in costly and unexpected guerilla warfare.

So Soviet Russia, on January 13, started a boycott of the United Nations. When that did not work, Marshal Malinovsky,

JAPANESE Premier Yoshida was riding from Tokyo to Yokohama not long ago when an American occupation force GI stepped into the middle of the road and brought the minister's car to a grinding halt.

The GI walked around the car and opened the door on the somewhat frightened Japanese statesman. Then the boy reached in his pocket, brought out a pack of cigarets and said:

"Hey, Bud, how about an American smoke?"

The struggle of Japanese advertising men to transform announcements of their wares into English often results in hilarious reading. The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes found this one in the Nippon Times recently:

"The Pearl House Ladies Specialty Shop, dresses plain and fancy, shoes sport and fancy, panties nice to put on, things your hearts desires, and makes the males admire."

Then there was an ad for the Hotel New Fuji which gives special rates by the week and month. But the ad also said "short rest for two persons, seven hundred yen. Welcome you long stay!"

On his flight back from Formosa Gen. Douglas MacArthur got out of his seat and paced restlessly up and down the aisle of his famed C-54 "Bataan." He looked out a window at the sea which was passing below him at 250 miles per hour. Then he said: "Dammit, this plane is too slow. I'm losing too much time."

P. S. The tried and trusty "Bataan" is being replaced shortly by a spanking new DC-6, which, being 50 miles an hour faster, will be able to keep pace with the 70-year-old Far Eastern commander.

That stateside blast on Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker (it was charged that he gave lavish parties at his Tokyo residence, with geisha girls standing behind the chair of each guest) drew loud guffaws in Tokyo.

The bulldoggish Walker, shaped in the rough and tumble mold of his ex-commander Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., led the least glamorous life of any high-ranking officer attached to MacArthur's staff—and the complaint against him by Army wives in Tokyo was that he never got around to giving any kind of party, much less the kind now unfairly pinned on him.

The democratization of Japan is now complete. A Japanese has reported a flying saucer. According to Mr. Senzo Imaizumi, of the Miyagi Prefecture, the saucer sped over the city of Aomori about 10 p. m. on a recent night and was visible for 15 seconds. He estimated its speed as that of a jet plane, but like his American counterparts he was unable to add that he also had seen a flying cup.

POCKETS ARE SPROUTING ALL OVER ON FALL SUITS AND DRESSES NOW BEING SHOWN IN LONDON SALONS

LONDON—Pockets sprout in all sorts of places on the fall suits and dresses being shown by Peter Russell of Berkley Square.

Most of them are big, and some are even behind—fashioned over the right hip and sporting lace hankies. There also are tiny pockets made in sleeves to hold tickets.

Peter Russel's main theme for Englishwomen this autumn is suits in velour with wrap-over top coats lined to match the suits. His new colors are pewter and red pewter, a deep gray-black with a slight red tinge. Gray is still popular and there are various shades of green and yellow.

Collars overlap lapels to keep them firmly in place, while some of the suit lapels have slots to hold a clip or flower. Many of the suits have double or single skirts, a new look for the post-summer months.

Evening dresses in the small collection are mostly in heavy duchess satin with tight bodices embroidered with Italian blown glass, full sweeping skirts and shaped, strapless tops. Elbow length gloves and evening bag all match rather than contrast.

Hats tend to hug the head. There is a large amount of soft, sweeping veiling.

Jackets and skirts will be one inch shorter, and the general trend seems to be towards a soft, sleek line.

In another collection designed for export, Victor Stiebel of Grosvenor Street aims to accentuate the femine figure.

Skirts are fitted in front, some bursting in to fullness behind. Jackets have tiny waists, fluted peplums jutting away from the hips. Collars contrast in velvet or fur with revers rolled deeply over the bust. Skirts in contrasting colors are made mostly of chiffon with knitted collars and cuffs.

Day dresses in wool combined with moire or taffeta, are mostly in black, with skirts hugging the hips in front and jutting out to a fullness behind. This latest style is called the "exit dress".

Evening dresses are in much the same style, hip-hugging, with cascades of fullness behind. Most of these are in brocades and failles, several colors being used for each dress, giving a kaleidescopic effect. Bodices are tight fitting and strapless. Sprays of artificial flowers and halters in contrasting colors brighten up the less elaborate styles.

Overcoats are barrel-type with huge wrap-over collars and large pockets and sleeves. Some are fitted to the waist with a backward flare to the skirt, and lapels and cuffs match the lining material. Shoulders are sloped and bodices are fitted loosely. Colors are toned to match dresses and suits.

By BING CROSBY

I realize, of course, that your column is not a political pillar, neither am I a political commentator. Nor will my observations on international politics be of such importance. So my little column represents a conspicuous first for both of us.

I was in Europe for a couple of months this spring, playing golf (it says here), sightseeing, casing some of the countries who receive aid from the Marshall Plan, and while such a short visit can only provide time for, at best, a cursory examination of the plan's application and effectiveness, I was considerably impressed by what I saw.

BING CROSBY

I don't know what the next two years of this plan are going to do to our national budget or our national debt, but that seems of secondary importance to me.

What is important is that it's bringing these countries back from the brink of extinction to the point where they can form a bulwark for us against those whose political ideologies represent the greatest menace in the world's history. If communism is allowed to have its way in Europe, it seems to me any money we spend now will look like peanuts compared to the alternate cost.

• — • — •

Now I'm a guy who likes to mix around a lot, and I take some pride in the knowledge that I can handle myself adequately in any kind of company.

In Europe, I became friendly with people in all walks of life—farmers, cattlemen, couturiers, perfumeurs, taxi drivers, industrialists, bell-boys, laundresses, machinists, laborers, athletes, jockeys, actors, artists, aristocrats—I don't know what all. But I can tell you one thing. They can work — work hard and cheerfully when they can see that the end result is rewarding.

Their point of view is the same as ours. They love their homes and their families, their historical traditions, and their social and religious obligations are, important to them. And they have great love of country. I'm not talking of the political figures, the great social celebrities, the people who make international news and headlines. I'm talking about the people—that great solid core that holds any nation together. They are for us. They have our point of view and they want to be permanent allies, but they need our economic support.

• — • — •

Some of you older folks may recall in the years following World War I that returning travellers averred that our erstwhile allies disliked us. Possibly with good cause. They lost the flower of their youth in the first World War.

I don't know the figures, but to give you an idea, I visited a small church one day this spring in a little town called Montigny Sur Loin—a thirteenth-century church of considerable beauty, incidentally. The plaque containing the names of those who lost their lives in the first World War listed 147 dead. This, in a parish which couldn't have numbered more than 500 people in the entire congregation!

So you see, we didn't do all the fighting, and any extravagant claims that we did must have aroused considerable animosity.

The situation after this war is different. They KNOW what the United States did. And they are truly grateful. They want to cooperate. They appreciate their position in this cold war. I think if they are supported for the next couple of years, we can count on their eternal friendship and their useful assistance.

• — • — •

I hope you will be kind and excuse me if in the foregoing I have waxed a little pedantic, and perhaps a little ponderously political. It just seems terribly important to me right now, from what I saw in Europe, that we finish the job!

You can believe me, a lot HAS been accomplished over there. I visited factories, families, offices and homes, and I saw at first hand the great good the Marshall Plan is accomplishing. Let's keep it rolling. I'm sure we'll never regret it.

dividually or in groups, have offered their military services to Gen. MacArthur since the outbreak of the Korean crisis. He has rejected all such offers, with thanks.

The total disarmament of Japan was number one item on MacArthur's agenda after the occupation began. He wants to do nothing to alter that situation, and he believes that any re-emergence of Japan militarily would have serious repercussions throughout the Pacific.

Besides, Japan already is costing U. S. taxpayers about a quarter of a billion dollars yearly, in food and other subsidies. And it would cost 80 million dollars to outfit a Japanese division with U. S. equipment.

• — • — •

The memory of the early days of World War II are kept alive around MacArthur's headquarters in many ways. In addition to MacArthur's four-engined Bataan there are paintings at his headquarters by prominent Philippine artists, and if you phone his home in the former U. S. Embassy the operator (very male) booms:

"Corregidor!"

When the United Nations acted too swiftly, and from Russia's standpoint illegally, in the Korean matter, Russia returned to the United Nations and ordered Jacob Malik to assume the role of provocateur—to delay, confound and confuse the nations of the world.

The next step is the entrance of Soviet China into the Korean war. At first, the Chinese will march into Korea, but as part of that effort, they will beyond doubt attempt to seize Hongkong, which the British have held for more than a century. This will involve large-scale fighting with the pivot at Shanghai.

Most alluringly feminine is the starchy-appearing girl on a humid, wilting day. Here's how to be that girl!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

DEAR to every feminine heart is the desire to star. Here's a winning tip on how to do it: Pick out the hot and humid, wilting days to lay your plans carefully for looking as starchy-fresh as possible. Never is a woman more alluringly feminine than when she attains this goal! All eyes are drawn to her as desert wanderers are to an oasis.

Winning Tricks

This column has given a number of hints lately on how to get the effect, but here are a few more to help you reach your objective easily:

1. Never let hot weather trick you into being lackadaisical about your clothes. Do wear the outfit that is fresh out of the cleaners and groomed to sparkling newness.

2. While others think that their shoddy, second-string dresses are good enough for the sultry day, you be the girl who is picture-perfect in the crisp sheer that was designed just for this moment.

3. Don't go off half-finished in last spring's limp-veiled hat. Or worse don't go altogether hatless. Do freshen up your millinery with new trimmings or break out that big job. What are you saving it for, anyway? I know it's tough to manage on the bus, but maybe wearing it will get you a seat for a change!

4. Don't mix up too many colors. Do limit your color combinations to three and those cool looking. Perfect, for instance, is a pine green dress accessorized with dark shoes, sheer, medium-toned hose, white hat and gloves.

Neat Control

5. Don't let your figure get out of control. Do wear a molding but comfortable, firm but porous garment.

6. Don't omit the individual touches. Do top off your appearance with a summery posy; one piece of frosty jewelry; a tiny, coquette of a fan; and the fragrance of a light perfume.

The compliments you'll receive and the appreciative approval that comes your way will raise your morale and make you completely unaware of the heat!

Care Is Urged For Victims Of Dog Bite

Animal Should Be Isolated 10 Days

Most people like dogs, which are usually friendly and useful companions to man.

The dog that bites, however, is far from popular. The majority of people know that rabies, an infectious and sometimes fatal disease, is most commonly transmitted to human beings by the bite of a "mad" dog. Every dog that bites isn't necessarily rabid, but no dog-bite victim should overlook the possibility that the offending animal is infected with the rabies virus, the Maryland Tuberculosis Association warns.

Rabies is associated with the "dog days" of August, but the disease may occur at any time. However, dogs do run about more freely in the summer, and during the humid days of August, dogs may become irritable, just like their masters, and thus be more likely to bite.

Rabies is caused by a virus which travels slowly along the nerves and spinal cord of the person infected. Once it reaches the brain, it is invariably fatal. The bite of a rabid dog on a person's face is more dangerous than if the victim were bitten on the leg, or even the arm, because the virus has a shorter distance to travel to the brain.

The best way to avoid rabies, naturally, is to avoid the possibility of being bitten by a dog. Be friendly and courageous in the presence of dogs and never run from one under any circumstances. Avoid petting strange dogs and warn children against fondling or teasing them.

But if the precautions fail, and a dog should bite, consult a doctor immediately. The doctor will sterilize the wound and, if the bite is deep, he may cauterize it. When the skin has been broken, the doctor may also give the dog-bite victim an injection to ward of tetanus, or lockjaw, as well as rabies.

Never kill a dog who has bitten someone, but report the incident to the health officer. He will see that the suspected dog is kept isolated and under observation for about ten days. If the dog appears to be well after ten days, there is no danger that anyone whom he might have bitten will develop rabies.

Many dogs are vaccinated these days against rabies. The animal injection of anti-rabic serum in the dog is not always dependable, but it does lessen the possibility of the animal's getting the disease, and it is wise for the dog-owner to see that his pet receives this treatment.

Physical Exams Are Urged For School Students

Beginners Must Have Medical Checkup

Children who are enrolling in kindergarten or first-grade classes of the county schools should have a complete physical examination before school opens, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, announced yesterday.

Parents should act promptly in taking care of these physical examinations if their children have not been to a physician or public health clinic in recent months.

Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, said prompt action on these examinations is recommended in order to allow time for corrective medical treatment if necessary.

Dr. Riley stated, "No youngster should be permitted to begin a school career with less than the best possible physical equipment.

"As most parents know, vaccination against smallpox is required by law before a child will be accepted for enrollment in Maryland schools. Those who received this immunization in infancy should be vaccinated again in order to assure a high degree of immunity and those who have never received this protection should be vaccinated without delay. It is desirable to have this done as soon as possible so that the scar will heal before September.

'Booster' Doses Necessary

"Diphtheria immunization is also an important safeguard for all boys and girls about to enter school. Those who have never been immunized against this disease should receive toxoid shots now. Children who were inoculated against diphtheria when they were babies should now have a 'booster dose' in order to maintain their immunity at a sufficiently high level.

"Other immunizations that the individual physician may recommend are also desirable as further health protection. Whooping cough, typhoid fever and tetanus are among the diseases against which the doctor may advise safeguards.

"Regardless of a child's apparent state of health parents should consider a trip to the physician's office essential preparation for school attendance. Assurance that the boy or girl is in good physical condition and able to withstand the added strains of school attendance is of real value. If unfavorable conditions are detected the check-up may be doubly important to the child's present and future well-being."

Prepare For Convention

Fulton Myers Post, No. 153, American Legion, will hold its last meeting before the state convention today at 8 p. m. in the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, Harrison Street.

Commander John E. Trimble said all delegates and members are expected to attend.

Trade School Is Enlarged Here

An additional classroom and machine shop at the Zimmerla Machine Works, 714 North Mechanic Street, has allowed an increased enrollment of 100 students at the trade school conducted by the Allegany Tool and Die Company, it was announced yesterday by the co-owners, A. R. Douglas and J. A. Collins.

So far 80 new students have enrolled leaving 20 vacancies in the school which will be conducted in two classes of 60 student each.

Karl F. Zimmerla and Robert E. Zimmerla have been added to the machinist instruction staff and J. D. Foley to the mathematics staff.

Approved by the Maryland State Board of Education and the Veterans' Administration, classes are for both veterans and non-veterans.

The course covers machinist mechanics blue print reading, mechanical drawing and mathematics.

Outdoor Club Will Dedicate Lodge

Dedication of the Cumberland Outdoor Club's new hunting lodge will be held Sunday at the lodge located 26 miles east of Cumberland.

Built by members of the club, the lodge took four months to construct.

The site is reached by a road to the left off Uhl Highway several miles outside of Oldtown. Roy Durrett will head an advance party leaving here Saturday afternoon to make arrangements for the dedication.

Transportation to the lodge will be furnished Sunday from 9 to 11 a. m. from the Gehauf Service Station, Park Street. Members will furnish their own lunches.

Wright Resigns Post As Head Of Hospital

Will End Work Here Sept. 15

Benjamin W. Wright, superintendent of Memorial Hospital for six years, submitted his resignation, effective September 15, to the Board of Governors of the hospital at their meeting Monday night, the board announced yesterday.

Wright leaves the local hospital for a job as superintendent of Wilmington General Hospital, Wilmington, Del. His successor has not been named.

Since he came to Cumberland September 1, 1944, Wright has increased the bed capacity at Memorial by 26 beds, making a total of 218. Another of his projects was the renovation of the out-patient department, making it available to the public, doctors and their patients and changing it from simply an accident ward.

Now under construction is a $100,000 contagious disease ward and also a garage and paint shop. Public waiting rooms have been made by inclosing porches on the south end of the hospital.

Since 1944, a full time radiologist and a full time pathologist have been added to the staff.

A native of Preston, Md., Wright worked in the administrative departments of hospitals in Salisbury, Md., Washington, D. C., and Arlington, Va., before coming to Cumberland.

A graduate of Beacon Business College in Wilmington, Wright says that the hospital there is of comparable size to Memorial, having 200 beds.

Physical Exams Are Urged For School Students

Beginners Must Have Medical Checkup

Children who are enrolling in kindergarten or first-grade classes of the county schools should have a complete physical examination before school opens, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, announced yesterday.

Parents should act promptly in taking care of these physical examinations if their children have not been to a physician or public health clinic in recent months.

Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, said prompt action on these examinations is recommended in order to allow time for corrective medical treatment if necessary.

Dr. Riley stated, "No youngster should be permitted to begin a school career with less than the best possible physical equipment.

"As most parents know, vaccination against smallpox is required by law before a child will be accepted for enrollment in Maryland schools. Those who received this immunization in infancy should be vaccinated again in order to assure a high degree of immunity and those who have never received this protection should be vaccinated without delay. It is desirable to have this done as soon as possible so that the scar will heal before September.

'Booster' Doses Necessary

"Diphtheria immunization is also an important safeguard for all boys and girls about to enter school. Those who have never been immunized against this disease should receive toxoid shots now. Children who were inoculated against diphtheria when they were babies should now have a 'booster dose' in order to maintain their immunity at a sufficiently high level.

"Other immunizations that the individual physician may recommend are also desirable as further health protection. Whooping cough, typhoid fever and tetanus are among the diseases against which the doctor may advise safeguards.

"Regardless of a child's apparent state of health parents should consider a trip to the physician's office essential preparation for school attendance. Assurance that the boy or girl is in good physical condition and able to withstand the added strains of school attendance is of real value. If unfavorable conditions are detected the check-up may be doubly important to the child's present and future well-being."

Trade School Is Enlarged Here

An additional classroom and machine shop at the Zimmerla Machine Works, 714 North Mechanic Street, has allowed an increased enrollment of 100 students at the trade school conducted by the Allegany Tool and Die Company, it was announced yesterday by the co-owners, A. R. Douglas and J. A. Collins.

So far 80 new students have enrolled leaving 20 vacancies in the school which will be conducted in two classes of 60 student each.

Karl F. Zimmerla and Robert E. Zimmerla have been added to the machinist instruction staff and J. D. Foley to the mathematics staff.

Outdoor Club Will Dedicate Lodge

Dedication of the Cumberland Outdoor Club's new hunting lodge will be held Sunday at the lodge located 26 miles east of Cumberland.

Built by members of the club, the lodge took four months to construct.

The site is reached by a road to the left off Uhl Highway several miles outside of Oldtown. Roy Durrett will head an advance party leaving here Saturday afternoon to make arrangements for the dedication.

Transportation to the lodge will be furnished Sunday from 9 to 11 a. m. from the Gehauf Service Station, Park Street. Members will furnish their own lunches.

Wright Resigns Post As Head Of Hospital

Will End Work Here Sept. 15

Benjamin W. Wright, superintendent of Memorial Hospital for six years, submitted his resignation, effective September 15, to the Board of Governors of the hospital at their meeting Monday night, the board announced yesterday.

Wright leaves the local hospital for a job as superintendent of Wilmington General Hospital, Wilmington, Del. His successor has not been named.

Since he came to Cumberland September 1, 1944, Wright has increased the bed capacity at Memorial by 26 beds, making a total of 218. Another of his projects was the renovation of the out-patient department, making it available to the public, doctors and their patients and changing it from simply an accident ward.

Now under construction is a $100,000 contagious disease ward and also a garage and paint shop. Public waiting rooms have been made by inclosing porches on the south end of the hospital.

Since 1944, a full time radiologist and a full time pathologist have been added to the staff.

A native of Preston, Md., Wright worked in the administrative departments of hospitals in Salisbury, Md., Washington, D. C., and Arlington, Va., before coming to Cumberland.

A graduate of Beacon Business College in Wilmington, Wright says that the hospital there is of comparable size to Memorial, having 200 beds.

Waterfowl Show To Mark Exhibit Of Poultry Here

Outside Display Pens Enlarged

An unusual outside waterfowl exhibit will be one highlight of the poultry and pigeon exhibits at the Cumberland Fair which opens Monday, August 21.

C. Arthur Smith, manager of the poultry department at the Fair, stated that the outside inclosure has been enlarged and will be unique that it will be divided.

On one side will be an exhibit of domestic water fowl by Henry G. Royer, Lebanon, consisting of Pekin, Aylesbury, Roen, Cayuga, Orpington, Runner, Muscov and Kahki Campbell ducks and Brown Chinese, White Embden and Toulouse geese.

The other side will exhibit rare varieties of wildfowl, some probably never shown before here. Here Henry K. Miller, Lebanon, will exhibit black and white mute swans, Hutchin, blue, snow, white fronted and Canadian geese, wood, mandarin blue and green teal, red head, black and white call and pintail ducks.

$2,000 In Prize Money

As for the inside show, Director Smith says that a total of $2,000 in prize money is being offered by the Fair Association and that this alone will assure a top show.

Smith himself will exhibit a string of many varieties of prize-winning pigeons including Tumblers, Flights, Modenas, Carneax, Fantails and Exhibition Homers.

Miller will also show Partridge Columbian and Blue Rocks, golden, silver, and Partridge Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, and whites, black javas and rare varieties like Blue Chanticlers, Buckeyes, and Brahmas.

Blue Spring Farms, Harrisburg, Pa., will show all colors in Cochins, Langshans, Orpingtons, Sussex, and Cornish.

Harry C. Weber, Hagerstown, will show an outstanding flock of modern game bantams in Birchen, Brown Breasted Reds, Pile and Golden and Silver Duckwing. William Meders, this city, will exhibit 40 pit game cocks, the real fighting variety in red, white, black, and grey.

Charles Smith, Cumberland, will show high class Old English game bantams, in spangled, brown red, and lemon blues.

Will Stress Utility Value

Naomi Miller, Lebanon, will have on display leghorns, minorcas, Houdans, Polish, Yokohomas, Frizzles and other rare varieties in many colors and varied hues.

George Edward Knox, Westminister, will stress utility value with his exhibits of New Hampshire Reds and Barred Rocks bred expressively for meat and egg production. He will also have an exhibit of turkeys.

The Future Farmers and 4-H Clubs will also have poultry exhibits, Smith declared.

The Maryland State Game Commission will have a special trailer exhibit of wild life consisting of quail, pheasants, grouse and wild turkeys.

Charles Smith will have Jacobins, rollers, Strassers, pouters and owls of excellent quality. Blue Ribbon Hungarian Lofts will have an exhibition 100 outstanding Hungarians in all colors.

J. Norman High, Reisterstown, will show the rare variety of ice pigeons in selfs, spangles and bars.

George E. Knox, Westminister, will show dragoons and racing homers, many with outstanding race records.

There will be quite a few smaller exhibitors showing that will make tough competition for the larger exhibitors, the poultry manager says.

Plastics Plant Heads Say City Isn't Suitable

New Site Is To Be Studied In Oakland

"Average high temperatures" and "dirty air" caused James H. Devine of the James H. Devine Plastics Company to abandon plans to locate a large plastics manufacturing plant here, Devine told a number of businessmen in Oakland Tuesday.

He now plans to build the plant in the Garrett County town because he says, "the mountain air furnishes natural air conditioning." Devine met yesterday afternoon with Oakland businessmen to discuss the new plant which will manufacture plastic tableware and related items, employing 200 workers to start with a goal of 1,000 employes.

Before refusing the Cumberland offer, Devine had several conferences with the Chamber of Commerce and the Steering Committee for Economic Development here. Nothing definite was decided as a result of these meetings.

The proposed Oakland plant, Devine said, would require the raising of $100,000 in local capital, which would be secured by stock in the firm. He stated that he has had offers from several cities in Illinois willing to meet his requirements, but perfers Oakland as a location.

Devine and his associates would secure orders for the plant's products and assume management. He indicated that a large market exists in the expanding war economy for plastic articles such as those he can produce.

Plastics Plant Heads Say City Isn't Suitable

New Site Is To Be Studied In Oakland

"Average high temperatures" and "dirty air" caused James H. Devine of the James H. Devine Plastics Company to abandon plans to locate a large plastics manufacturing plant here, Devine told a number of businessmen in Oakland Tuesday.

He now plans to build the plant in the Garrett County town because he says, "the mountain air furnishes natural air conditioning." Devine met yesterday afternoon with Oakland businessmen to discuss the new plant which will manufacture plastic tableware and related items, employing 200 workers to start with a goal of 1,000 employes.

Before refusing the Cumberland offer, Devine had several conferences with the Chamber of Commerce and the Steering Committee for Economic Development here. Nothing definite was decided as a result of these meetings.

The proposed Oakland plant, Devine said, would require the raising of $100,000 in local capital, which would be secured by stock in the firm. He stated that he has had offers from several cities in Illinois willing to meet his requirements, but perfers Oakland as a location.

Devine and his associates would secure orders for the plant's products and assume management. He indicated that a large market exists in the expanding war economy for plastic articles such as those he can produce.

Ray Robinson Takes Decision Over Fusari

Welter King Retains His Title In Cleancut Verdict Over Foe

30,000 See Bout For Damon Runyon Fund

RAY ROBINSON

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 9 (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson retained his world welterweight championship tonight with a cleancut 15-round decision over Charley Fusari before a capacity crowd of more than 30,000 in Roosevelt Stadium.

Robinson weighed 147 pounds, the exact limit for his class, and Fusari came in at 145¼. The champion gave all of his purse except for one dollar to the Damon Runyon fund.

The Associated Press score card showed 14 rounds for Robinson, with the twelfth round even.

Robinson drew blood freely from Fusari's head in the opening rounds but the challenger came back strongly.

Referee Paul Cavalier carded 14 rounds for Robinson and one for Fusari, the fourth.

Only in the fourth round, and for a brief surge in the twelfth, did Fusari indicate that his presence in the ring with the 30-year-old champion was anything but an usher's mistake.

Vic Marsillo, Fusari's manager, said later he thought Robinson was "weak." The dark-skinned New York champion did fit that description at times, but on other occasions, notably the 14th round, he was a deadlier figure. In this round, Sugar Ray called upon a right hand which had been mothballed most of the fight and all but socked Fusari's face into the back of his head.

Game Today

Pirates vs. Yankees (Penn Ave.—7:30 p. m.)

The Red Sox boosted their lead in the Dapper Division of the Little League to 1½ games by turning back the second-place Pirates 7-1 yesterday at Stitcher Field while in the Dan section the rampaging Tigers blasted the last-place Braves 10-1 at East Side.

Under the arcs at Penn Avenue field little Bobby Russell, second baseman of the Indians proved the batting star as he smashed two homeruns, one with the bases loaded and another with two on, to personally bat in seven of his teams eight tallies as the Indians downed the Dodgers, 8-5.

In the day's slugfest, the Phillies stomped over the Yankees at Fort Hill field to the tune of 14 to 5.

Billmyer and Sullivan combined to hold the Pirates to two hits, shared by Webb and Grimes, as the Red Sox increased their first place margin. Wayne Long hit a triple and homer for the winners.

At East Side Jerry Landis blasted two circuit clouts and Bob Lewis and Ken Johnson two others to pace the slugging Tiger attack. Lewis fanned eight batsmen in the three innings he worked on the mound for the winners.

At Penn Avenue Russell put the Indians in front 3-0 with his first circuit blow and after the Dodgers rallied for four in the third, capped by Yaider's homer with one aboard, Bobby again came through with a four-master with the hassocks crammed to cinch the Indian victory in the fifth inning.

The Phillies scored in every inning as they humbled the Yanks with Diehl collecting four hits including a three-bagger and Hanekamp getting three bingles, one a double. Hale had a double and single for the losers.

Art Washington relieved Hurt in the first inning and received credit for the win although in constant trouble throughout the game. Washington walked seven but struck out 11. The Yankees had the dubious distinction of leaving 14 base runners stranded in the six-inning affair. The scores:

Raschi Tosses Second 3-Hitter In Row At Bosox

Retires First 20 Batters In 2-1 Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP) — Vic Raschi pitched the New York Yankees to a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Red Sox today, and for six and two thirds breathless innings it looked as if he might achieve the first perfect game in the major leagues since 1922.

Billy Goodman's infield single finally broke the magic of the big Yankee's strong right arm. Then in the eighth Al Zarilla hit a homer to end any argument over the close decision on Goodman at first base.

As it was, Raschi retired 32 consecutive batters in his last two pitching performances, both superb ones. He set down the last 12 Cleveland Indians to face him Aug. 4 when he won 1-0, and the first 20 Red Sox today. In both these games he allowed only three hits. Box:

Whitesville scored in the first inning, but Martinsburg registered in the fourth and took the lead with a sixth-inning run which Whitesville promptly matched.

Locke Shoots 69 To Top Mangrum In Tam Playoff

Takes First Money By 4-Stroke Margin

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP) — Bobby Locke defeated Lloyd Mangrum by four strokes, 69-73, in a playoff today to win $2,500 and the Tam O'Shanter All-American golf title. The triumph marked his first return to U. S. fairways in more than a year.

BOBBY LOCKE

Mangrum, who won $20,000 and everything but the door knobs at Tam in 1948 when Locke was runner-up, accepted second money of $1,750.

After the first four holes, Locke had scooted ahead by two strokes. Mangrum never came close to closing the gap as they toiled over the par 36-36—72 layout under a broiling sun.

A swarm of 12,000 persons, all admitted free to the course, romped after them.

It was Locke's second Tam playoff win in the All-American tournament. In 1948 he defeated Porky Oliver 140 to 146 in a 36-hole showdown.

Tam's grand finale, the "world" championships for men pros, men amateurs, women pros and women amateurs, will open 72 holes of medal play tomorrow.

Lusty Song Cops Hambletonian In Straight Heats

Wins $40,537 And Trotting's Top Race

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP) — Lusty Song, the two-year-old trotting champion a year ago, won the silver anniversary Hambletonian Stakes in straight heats today.

The strapping brown son of Volomite-Scotch Song, took on a dozen of the nation's best three-year-old trotters in this richest of all Hambletonians and blazed home to grab the winner's share of $40,537. The time for both heats was 2:02 flat.

The gross purse totaled $75,209.

A crowd of 16,942 harness racing addicts jammed into Bill Cane's famed Good Time Park this time and established Star's Pride and Florican the 7-5 favorite in the opening heat.

But Lusty Song and his driver, Del Miller of Meadow Lands, Pa., never worried about the tote board. They went out and got the business done quickly. It was the third straight year the race had been won in two consecutive one mile dashes.

Star's Pride, owned jointly by E. Roland Harriman, the railroad man, and Lawrence B. Sheppard, the Hanover, Pa., shoe maker, was the colt who had beaten Lusty Song earlier this year on the half mile tracks.

Ray Robinson Takes Decision Over Fusari

Welter King Retains His Title In Cleancut Verdict Over Foe

30,000 See Bout For Damon Runyon Fund

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 9 (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson retained his world welterweight championship tonight with a cleancut 15-round decision over Charley Fusari before a capacity crowd of more than 30,000 in Roosevelt Stadium.

Robinson weighed 147 pounds, the exact limit for his class, and Fusari came in at 145¼. The champion gave all of his purse except for one dollar to the Damon Runyon fund.

The Associated Press score card showed 14 rounds for Robinson, with the twelfth round even.

Robinson drew blood freely from Fusari's head in the opening rounds but the challenger came back strongly.

Referee Paul Cavalier carded 14 rounds for Robinson and one for Fusari, the fourth.

Only in the fourth round, and for a brief surge in the twelfth, did Fusari indicate that his presence in the ring with the 30-year-old champion was anything but an usher's mistake.

Vic Marsillo, Fusari's manager, said later he thought Robinson was "weak." The dark-skinned New York champion did fit that description at times, but on other occasions, notably the 14th round, he was a deadlier figure. In this round, Sugar Ray called upon a right hand which had been mothballed most of the fight and all but socked Fusari's face into the back of his head.

Pirates vs. Yankees (Penn Ave.—7:30 p. m.)

The Red Sox boosted their lead in the Dapper Division of the Little League to 1½ games by turning back the second-place Pirates 7-1 yesterday at Stitcher Field while in the Dan section the rampaging Tigers blasted the last-place Braves 10-1 at East Side.

Under the arcs at Penn Avenue field little Bobby Russell, second baseman of the Indians proved the batting star as he smashed two homeruns, one with the bases loaded and another with two on, to personally bat in seven of his teams eight tallies as the Indians downed the Dodgers, 8-5.

In the day's slugfest, the Phillies stomped over the Yankees at Fort Hill field to the tune of 14 to 5.

Billmyer and Sullivan combined to hold the Pirates to two hits, shared by Webb and Grimes, as the Red Sox increased their first place margin. Wayne Long hit a triple and homer for the winners.

At East Side Jerry Landis blasted two circuit clouts and Bob Lewis and Ken Johnson two others to pace the slugging Tiger attack. Lewis fanned eight batsmen in the three innings he worked on the mound for the winners.

At Penn Avenue Russell put the Indians in front 3-0 with his first circuit blow and after the Dodgers rallied for four in the third, capped by Yaider's homer with one aboard, Bobby again came through with a four-master with the hassocks crammed to cinch the Indian victory in the fifth inning.

The Phillies scored in every inning as they humbled the Yanks with Diehl collecting four hits including a three-bagger and Hanekamp getting three bingles, one a double. Hale had a double and single for the losers.

Art Washington relieved Hurt in the first inning and received credit for the win although in constant trouble throughout the game. Washington walked seven but struck out 11. The Yankees had the dubious distinction of leaving 14 base runners stranded in the six-inning affair. The scores:

Retires First 20 Batters In 2-1 Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP) — Vic Raschi pitched the New York Yankees to a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Red Sox today, and for six and two thirds breathless innings it looked as if he might achieve the first perfect game in the major leagues since 1922.

Billy Goodman's infield single finally broke the magic of the big Yankee's strong right arm. Then in the eighth Al Zarilla hit a homer to end any argument over the close decision on Goodman at first base.

As it was, Raschi retired 32 consecutive batters in his last two pitching performances, both superb ones. He set down the last 12 Cleveland Indians to face him Aug. 4 when he won 1-0, and the first 20 Red Sox today. In both these games he allowed only three hits. Box:

Bob Elliott's Bat Breaks Giants' 8-Game Win Skein

Two Doubles Bring Boston 3-2 Decision

BOSTON, Aug 9 (AP)—Two booming doubles by Bob Elliott brought an end today to the New York Giants string of eight straight victories, giving victory to the Boston Braves 3 to 2.

Bob Elliott

Elliott's two bagger in the fourth, with two out, was followed by Sid Gordon's double to score the first Braves run. In the sixth with the Giants leading, 2-1, Elliott's second double scored Earl Torgeson who had walked. Elliott advanced to third on a fly and scored the winning run on Tommy Holmes' high pop to Bobby Thompson. Box:

Martinsburg Is Legion Tilt Loser

OAK HILL, W. Va., Aug. 9 (AP) — Whitesville defeated Martinsburg 5-2 tonight to join Clarksburg and Parkersburg in the winners' column of opening-round play in the state American Legion junior baseball tournament.

Beckley and the defending champion Wheeling team meet in the nightcap to complete the first day's play.

Whitesville scored in the first inning, but Martinsburg registered in the fourth and took the lead with a sixth-inning run which Whitesville promptly matched.

But the eighth was the big inning. Martinsburg put two men on base on an error and a hit batter, and both advanced on a wild pitch to second and third respectively. Then Whitesville's Hal Woods settled down and struck out Nicodemus.

The afternoon contests saw Clarksburg take the measure of Morgantown, 10-2, while Parkersburg swamped Williamson 14-5. Score:

Takes First Money By 4-Stroke Margin

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP) — Bobby Locke defeated Lloyd Mangrum by four strokes, 69-73, in a playoff today to win $2,500 and the Tam O'Shanter All-American golf title. The triumph marked his first return to U. S. fairways in more than a year.

BOBBY LOCKE

Mangrum, who won $20,000 and everything but the door knobs at Tam in 1948 when Locke was runner-up, accepted second money of $1,750.

After the first four holes, Locke had scooted ahead by two strokes. Mangrum never came close to closing the gap as they toiled over the par 36-36—72 layout under a broiling sun.

A swarm of 12,000 persons, all admitted free to the course, romped after them.

It was Locke's second Tam playoff win in the All-American tournament. In 1948 he defeated Porky Oliver 140 to 146 in a 36-hole showdown.

Tam's grand finale, the "world" championships for men pros, men amateurs, women pros and women amateurs, will open 72 holes of medal play tomorrow.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP) — The Detroit Tigers retained their three game edge on the American League field by defeating the Chicago White Sox 5-3 today.

Vic Wertz, the second batter ever to drive a baseball into the center field bullpen in Comiskey Park, helped the first placers to victory on his homer, his twenty-fourth. It followed an eighth inning double by George Kell to supply Detroit's winning margin.

Freddie Hutchinson scattered nine Chicago hits to gain his thirteenth victory. Box:

Wins $40,537 And Trotting's Top Race

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP) — Lusty Song, the two-year-old trotting champion a year ago, won the silver anniversary Hambletonian Stakes in straight heats today.

The strapping brown son of Volomite-Scotch Song, took on a dozen of the nation's best three-year-old trotters in this richest of all Hambletonians and blazed home to grab the winner's share of $40,537. The time for both heats was 2:02 flat.

The gross purse totaled $75,209.

A crowd of 16,942 harness racing addicts jammed into Bill Cane's famed Good Time Park this time and established Star's Pride and Florican the 7-5 favorite in the opening heat.

But Lusty Song and his driver, Del Miller of Meadow Lands, Pa., never worried about the tote board. They went out and got the business done quickly. It was the third straight year the race had been won in two consecutive one mile dashes.

Star's Pride, owned jointly by E. Roland Harriman, the railroad man, and Lawrence B. Sheppard, the Hanover, Pa., shoe maker, was the colt who had beaten Lusty Song earlier this year on the half mile tracks.

Atalanta Is Upset Winner At Saratoga

Monmouth Park Ends 47-Day Meet Today

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)—Atalanta, showing a measure of improvement over her initial start at the meeting, sprang a surprise when she decisively captured the 33rd Schuylerville here today, returning $46.10, $14.10 and $9.40 through the $2 line. At the end of the 5½ furlongs, the daughter of Count Fleet had 2½ lengths to spare over Foxcattcher Farms' Rose Fern, the favorite. The race was worth $8,225 to her owner, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, patroness of Brookmeade Stable.

Greentree Stable's Ruddy, a recent winner here, was a faltering third, two lengths back of Rose Fern and only a head in advance of Llangollen Farm's Wisteria. A dozen juvenile fillies clashed. The time was a creditable 1:06.

The race was a bit roughly run. However, Atalanta, which had been beaten four lengths by Ruddy last week, was clear of interference. Rushed to the front by Hedley Woodhouse, she displayed gameness in staving off a strong early bid from Tides, another from Ruddy, and at the end drew away. This was the filly's second win in six starts, her most important one to date. Brookmeade won the Schuylerville with Teacher in 1939.

Monmouth Meet Ends

MONMOUTH PARK, N. J., Aug. 9 (AP)—The 47-day Monmouth Park meeting ended this afternoon with a gala throng of aproximately 23,600 fans in attendance to witness the front-running victory of Brookfield Farms' Imacomin in the Oceanport Handicap.

Lone filly in the nine-horse field, Imacomin failed to leave the issue in doubt as she sprinted into a commanding lead and held sway by two lengths over Al-Jo Stable's Cacique. Third money went to Justin Funkhouser's Noble Impulse, who overcame interference. The winner, under veteran Mike Basile, was timed in 1:11 1-5 for the six furlongs and was completely overlooked in the wagering, paying $33.20.

While Imacomin's victory was a convincing one, both Noble Impulse and Henry Hecht's The Pincher were roughed about, with Cacique evidently to blame. In winning this fourth edition of the Oceanport, the Heliopolis filly picked up $8,575 of the $12,500 gross purse.

Atalanta Is Upset Winner At Saratoga

Monmouth Park Ends 47 Day Meet Today

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)—Atalanta, showing a measure of improvement over her initial start at the meeting, sprang a surprise when she decisively captured the 33rd Schuylerville here today, returning $46.10, $14.10 and $9.40 through the $2 line. At the end of the 5½ furlongs, the daughter of Count Fleet had 2½ lengths to spare over Foxcattcher Farms' Rose Fern, the favorite. The race was worth $8,225 to her owner, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, patroness of Brookmeade Stable.

Greentree Stable's Ruddy, a recent winner here, was a faltering third, two lengths back of Rose Fern and only a head in advance of Llangollen Farm's Wisteria. A dozen juvenile fillies clashed. The time was a creditable 1:06.

The race was a bit roughly run. However, Atalanta, which had been beaten four lengths by Ruddy last week, was clear of interference. Rushed to the front by Hedley Woodhouse, she displayed gameness in staving off a strong early bid from Tides, another from Ruddy, and at the end drew away. This was the filly's second win in six starts, her most important one to date. Brookmeade won the Schuylerville with Teacher in 1939.

Monmouth Meet Ends

MONMOUTH PARK, N. J., Aug. 9 (AP)—The 47-day Monmouth Park meeting ended this afternoon with a gala throng of aproximately 23,600 fans in attendance to witness the front-running victory of Brookfield Farms' Imacomin in the Oceanport Handicap.

Lone filly in the nine-horse field, Imacomin failed to leave the issue in doubt as she sprinted into a commanding lead and held sway by two lengths over Al-Jo Stable's Cacique. Third money went to Justin Funkhouser's Noble Impulse, who overcame interference. The winner, under veteran Mike Basile, was timed in 1:11 1-5 for the six furlongs and was completely overlooked in the wagering, paying $33.20.

While Imacomin's victory was a convincing one, both Noble Impulse and Henry Hecht's The Pincher were roughed about, with Cacique evidently to blame. In winning this fourth edition of the Oceanport, the Heliopolis filly picked up $8,575 of the $12,500 gross purse.

Frostburg Will Install 4 New Traffic Lights

Change In Level To Improve Vision

FROSTBURG — Police Commissioner Perry W. Meyers reported to the city council Monday evening that his department has purchased four new traffic vision lights, two of which will be placed at the corner of Grant and East Main Street.

The traffic light at the corner of Grant and East Main will be moved to Bowery and East Main where it will be used with one of the new lights, both of which will be placed at a lower level than the existing light suspended in the center of the street.

Myers added that the present light at the corner of West Main and Water Street will be taken down and replaced with two new vision lights erected at a lower level so as to be visible at a greater distance.

The present light at Water and Main will be used at the west end of town as a blinker light and a similar blinker light will be placed at the east end of town, Myers said.

Court Decision May Affect Ballot In Mineral County

KEYSER, W. Va. — A recent decision of the West Virginia Supreme Court may result in a change in the setup for candidates named on the non-partisan ballot for Mineral County Board of Education in the Mineral County primary.

There were five candidates and the general belief was that the names of the four leading candidates would be placed on the ticket at the general election.

While preparing for the general election, county officers proceeded with the understanding that the names of the four top candidates would appear on the ballots. However information has been received here unofficially that a recent decision of the State Supreme Court in a Kanawha County case has indicated that only the names of the three highest candidates may be used here.

Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott, said he will study the matter.

Court Decision May Affect Ballot In Mineral County

KEYSER, W. Va. — A recent decision of the West Virginia Supreme Court may result in a change in the setup for candidates named on the non-partisan ballot for Mineral County Board of Education in the Mineral County primary.

There were five candidates and the general belief was that the names of the four leading candidates would be placed on the ticket at the general election.

While preparing for the general election, county officers proceeded with the understanding that the names of the four top candidates would appear on the ballots. However information has been received here unofficially that a recent decision of the State Supreme Court in a Kanawha County case has indicated that only the names of the three highest candidates may be used here.

Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott, said he will study the matter.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9—(INS)—David Farrar, the British actor whose big hit here was "Black Narcissus," has signed with Universal-International on an unusual deal. For the next seven years half his contract belongs to U-I. However, Emeric Powell and Eric Pressburger retain the other half for their British films.

Farrar, who has never been in this country, arrives in the fall with his wife and child.

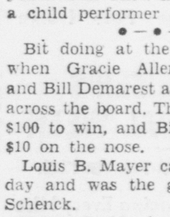
Ginger Rogers may go to Italy to make a picture for Gene Markey in January.



Ginger Rogers

She has already received his script, "The Lady And The Lion," a mystery chiller of Venice—and likes it.

Meanwhile, there's terrific commotion on the set of Ginger's current picture, "Illegal Bride." The director, Richard Whorf, has to finish in time to take off for New York no later than Monday.

He starts rehearsals right away in "Season In The Sun" in which he'll turn actor again, directed by another actor-director, Burgess Meredith.

Vivien Leigh, who has never seen a Charleston contest, was goggle-eyed at the antics at the Mocambo—and everyone else was goggle-eyed over Vivien.

She looks beautiful and so well and what little weight she has put on since we last saw Scarlett O'Hara Leigh, is very becoming. Vivien was with the Danny Kayes and the William Goetzes.

Chatter in Hollywood: Mickey Rooney is blowing a fuse because his ex-wife, Betty Jane Race, took their five-year-old son to test for the "Queen For A Day" movie.

The little boy was a sensation when his mother brought him to Bob Stillman's office already jammed with ambitious mothers and children.

Mickey, Jr., is as cute as a button, already showing some of his old man's talent.

But before he can take any movie job the Mick will have to agree. From the way he's carrying on you'd never know Mickey started as a child performer himself.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jack LaRue's annulment suit against the wealthy Baroness Edith Von Rosenberg, comes up in New York in two weeks.

Virginia Grey and Gilbert Roland, who just made "Torero" in Mexico, are making torrid in Hollywood.

Ella Raines is renting her Beverly Hills home now that Major Robin Olds has been transferred east. She may do Saroyan's new play on Broadway this fall.

Eleanor Parker on the Warner Lot for pictures—just portrait pictures not movies. But after her click in "Three Secrets" wait and see if she doesn't make another picture for her old studio.

Spike Jones left on a long P. A. tour today which should be boon news to the box offices.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A salesman in Missouri was held up in a small town because heavy rains had caused a washout on the railroad. "This looks like the flood," he observed to a waitress in the local hotel. "The what?" she asked. "The flood," he repeated. "You know the flood when Noah saved the animals on the ark. You must have read about that." The waitress assured him gravely, "Mister, on account of all this rain, I ain't seen a paper in four days."

Jerry Lewis tells about the battered middleweight who refused a thousand dollar bribe to "take a dive" in the second round of a bout with a highly publicized and overrated newcomer. The battered pug's explanation was, "I never lasted till the second round yet, and I ain't gonna start now."

Disc jockeys go high brow.

Yes, sir, famed conductors, Leopold Stokowski and Sir Thomas Beecham, have become disc jockeys and this is certain to inject a new note of elegance into the field.

They'll probably be the only disc jockeys with monogrammed lifetime needles made of pure platinum.

I can hear Sir Thomas saying: "We'll now hear the song that's number one in Buckingham Palace this week."

And if Beecham descends to jive talk it will be in keeping with the high tone of the show. Describing a new hit, he may say: "When Lady Chatsworth heard this platter, she blew her coronet."

Beecham and Stokowski may even change popular song titles to fit their shows. They'll probably call it: "If I Knew You Were Arriving, I' Have Ordered Some Caviar."

The entry of Beecham and Stokowski into the disc jockey ranks may confuse Petrillo. He'll say: "Who are those two guys who send their dues over by their butlers?"

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9—(INS)—David Farrar, the British actor whose big hit here was "Black Narcissus," has signed with Universal-International on an unusual deal. For the next seven years half his contract belongs to U-I. However, Emeric Powell and Eric Pressburger retain the other half for their British films.

Farrar, who has never been in this country, arrives in the fall with his wife and child.

Ginger Rogers may go to Italy to make a picture for Gene Markey in January.

Ginger Rogers

She has already received his script, "The Lady And The Lion," a mystery chiller of Venice—and likes it.

Meanwhile, there's terrific commotion on the set of Ginger's current picture, "Illegal Bride." The director, Richard Whorf, has to finish in time to take off for New York no later than Monday.

He starts rehearsals right away in "Season In The Sun" in which he'll turn actor again, directed by another actor-director, Burgess Meredith.

Vivien Leigh, who has never seen a Charleston contest, was goggle-eyed at the antics at the Mocambo—and everyone else was goggle-eyed over Vivien.

She looks beautiful and so well and what little weight she has put on since we last saw Scarlett O'Hara Leigh, is very becoming. Vivien was with the Danny Kayes and the William Goetzes.

Chatter in Hollywood: Mickey Rooney is blowing a fuse because his ex-wife, Betty Jane Race, took their five-year-old son to test for the "Queen For A Day" movie.

The little boy was a sensation when his mother brought him to Bob Stillman's office already jammed with ambitious mothers and children.

Mickey, Jr., is as cute as a button, already showing some of his old man's talent.

But before he can take any movie job the Mick will have to agree. From the way he's carrying on you'd never know Mickey started as a child performer himself.

Bit doing at the Del Mar track when Gracie Allen, Irma Rogell and Bill Demarest all had Fair Land across the board. The nag paid over $100 to win, and Bill had an extra $10 on the nose.

Betty Grable is still there and she's always a big hit with the race fans.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jack LaRue's annulment suit against the wealthy Baroness Edith Von Rosenberg, comes up in New York in two weeks.

Virginia Grey and Gilbert Roland, who just made "Torero" in Mexico, are making torrid in Hollywood.

Ella Raines is renting her Beverly Hills home now that Major Robin Olds has been transferred east. She may do Saroyan's new play on Broadway this fall.

Eleanor Parker on the Warner Lot for pictures—just portrait pictures not movies. But after her click in "Three Secrets" wait and see if she doesn't make another picture for her old studio.

Spike Jones left on a long P. A. tour today which should be boon news to the box offices.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Let's Ignore It, Maybe It'll Go Away

The Northwestern University Reviewing Stand's discussion on the topic, "The Impact of Television," was cancelled. There seems to be some disagreement as to the cause of cancellation. The Mutual Broadcasting System, which has no television network, says it was because radio was not represented on the panel. John Meck Industries, whose president, John Meck, was to have been one of the panel members, claims that Mutual refused to allow the horrid word, television, to be bandied around on its network.

I don't know who is right.

• — • — •

Speaking of the past, I see that Ford Frick, the president of the National League, is blaming radio for the decline in minor league attendance. Not television, mind you. Mr. Frick absolves television, claiming there isn't enough of it in range of minor league cities to make much difference.

But just why Mr. Frick has pinned the blame on radio is not very clear. It's an argument I haven't heard in years. Originally the baseball men were highly suspicious of radio. But through the decades, the feeling gradually grew both among broadcasters and baseball magnates that radio had added a vast new audience, especially among women, to the national pastime both in major and minor league cities.

Now, at this late date, Mr. Frick decides that radio is a villain after all. Why? There was just as mucn radio last year and the minors had their best season in all history. I have no idea why minor league attendance is down this year but it seems to me that bad weather, high prices and the grim news from Korea may all share some of the responsibility for keeping people away from the ball parks. Radio, after all, has been around the ball parks for a quarter of a century. Any damage it would do the minor leagues should have been felt years ago.

• — • — •

Rather belatedly, simply because we're on the subject of baseball, I'd like to say a few kind words about the telecast of the All-Star game, which, you'll recall, came from Chicago. Last fall, when the World Series was carried on several TV networks, there were loud squawks from Chicago and St. Louis. The Chicagoans and the St. Louisans both proclaimed that the New York technique of telecasting baseball games was far behind their own.

Since we Easterners had no way of checking up on these claims, they were set down as simple provincial pride and ignored. However, the All-Star game gave us all a chance to see how they do it in Chicago. We took a while to get used to it but I'm forced to concede that the Chicagoans do it better. Several of their cameras are planted somewhere along the first and the third base lines. This gives you a view of the batter from the side rather than from the top as do our telecasts, and you get a far better idea of what sort of stuff the pitcher is throwing. For the first time I could call balls and strikes with a reasonable degree of accuracy. Also, on a swing and a miss, you could tell what sort of pitch the batter swung at, how far he missed and why he missed.

• — • — •

The Chicago technique also follows the ball a lot more closely after it is hit, sometimes sacrificing the base-running in the process. On the whole, though, I prefer the Chicago technique to our own. I wish we'd at least give it a try.

Radio And Television

Let's Ignore It, Maybe It'll Go Away

The Northwestern University Reviewing Stand's discussion on the topic, "The Impact of Television," was cancelled. There seems to be some disagreement as to the cause of cancellation. The Mutual Broadcasting System, which has no television network, says it was because radio was not represented on the panel. John Meck Industries, whose president, John Meck, was to have been one of the panel members, claims that Mutual refused to allow the horrid word, television, to be bandied around on its network.

I don't know who is right.

• — • — •

Speaking of the past, I see that Ford Frick, the president of the National League, is blaming radio for the decline in minor league attendance. Not television, mind you. Mr. Frick absolves television, claiming there isn't enough of it in range of minor league cities to make much difference.

But just why Mr. Frick has pinned the blame on radio is not very clear. It's an argument I haven't heard in years. Originally the baseball men were highly suspicious of radio. But through the decades, the feeling gradually grew both among broadcasters and baseball magnates that radio had added a vast new audience, especially among women, to the national pastime both in major and minor league cities.

Now, at this late date, Mr. Frick decides that radio is a villain after all. Why? There was just as much radio last year and the minors had their best season in all history. I have no idea why minor league attendance is down this year but it seems to me that bad weather, high prices and the grim news from Korea may all share some of the responsibility for keeping people away from the ball parks. Radio, after all, has been around the ball parks for a quarter of a century. Any damage it would do the minor leagues should have been felt years ago.

• — • — •

Rather belatedly, simply because we're on the subject of baseball, I'd like to say a few kind words about the telecast of the All-Star game, which, you'll recall, came from Chicago. Last fall, when the World Series was carried on several TV networks, there were loud squawks from Chicago and St. Louis. The Chicagoans and the St. Louisans both proclaimed that the New York technique of telecasting baseball games was far behind their own.

Since we Easterners had no way of checking up on these claims, they were set down as simple provincial pride and ignored. However, the All-Star game gave us all a chance to see how they do it in Chicago. We took a while to get used to it but I'm forced to concede that the Chicagoans do it better. Several of their cameras are planted somewhere along the first and the third base lines. This gives you a view of the batter from the side rather than from the top as do our telecasts, and you get a far better idea of what sort of stuff the pitcher is throwing. For the first time I could call balls and strikes with a reasonable degree of accuracy. Also, on a swing and a miss, you could tell what sort of pitch the batter swung at, how far he missed and why he missed.

• — • — •

The Chicago technique also follows the ball a lot more closely after it is hit, sometimes sacrificing the base-running in the process. On the whole, though, I prefer the Chicago technique to our own. I wish we'd at least give it a try.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our Wife and Mother, Mrs. Leona F. Jackson who passed away one year ago, August 10, 1949.
Some may think we are not lonely,
When time they see us smile,
But little do they know the heartache,
That we suffer all the while,
Our family circle is broken,
The voice we love is still,
Your place is vacant in our hearts,
No one can ever fill.
Flowers we place upon your grave,
Will wither and decay,
But love for you who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.
Her loving Husband and Children

In memory of Mother, Mrs. G. A. Rohrbough who passed away.
Six months have quickly passed away
Since Jesus called you home
From this world of sin and strife
Leaving us here alone.
Memories of those childhood days
Oft make the teardrops start
To think of all the sorrow you bore
Within your loving heart.
We'll always remember you Mother
We'll always remember your Love
That taught us to live for Jesus
So He would unite us above.
Sadly missed by daughter and granddaughter.
Mrs. Bernice DeVore and Mrs. Ina McCloud.

Cards of Thanks

We sincerely thank all for your kind expressions of sympathy in the loss of our loved one, Charles R. Warnick. Your acts of kindness were deeply appreciated and are gratefully acknowledged.
Charles E. Warnick and Family.

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the many kindnesses extended during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Orena T. Rummer. We especially wish to thank the blood donors, ministers, pallbearers, neighbors, those who sent flowers and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Viands and Family

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our Wife and Mother, Mrs. Leona F. Jackson who passed away one year ago, August 10, 1949.
Some may think we are not lonely,
When time they see us smile,
But little do they know the heartache,
That we suffer all the while,
Our family circle is broken,
The voice we love is still,
Your place is vacant in our hearts,
No one can ever fill,
Flowers we place upon your grave,
Will wither and decay,
But love for you who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.
Her loving Husband and Children

In memory of Mother, Mrs. G. A. Rohrbough who passed away.
Six months have quickly passed away
Since Jesus called you home
From this world of sin and strife
Leaving us here alone.
Memories of those childhood days
Oft make the teardrops start
To think of all the sorrow you bore
Within your loving heart.
We'll always remember you Mother
We'll always remember your Love
That taught us to live for Jesus
So He would unite us above.
Sadly missed by daughter and granddaughter.
Mrs. Bernice DeVore and Mrs. Ina McCloud.

Market Given Shot In Arm By Demand For TV Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP) — Vigorous demand for radio-television stocks gave a shot in the arm to the whole market today.

TV issues kept their lead over other groups and closed with gains running to more than $3 a share. Advances of around $1 a share or less were the rule elsewhere.

Steel, motor, oil and an assortment of specialty stocks were among the most popular.

TV issues were evidently influenced strongly by news from the industry that not even partial mobilization of the economy would cut very deeply into civilian production.

Also a factor — although to what extent it was difficult to gauge — was the best war news yet to come out of Korea.

Some traders were encouraged, too, by reports from Washington the Congress was finally coming to grips with war taxes and controls after last week's legislative confusion.

A disappointment to some market strategists was a decline in the volume of trading. Sales of 1,760,000 shares were the smallest for the week and compared with 2,180,000 Tuesday.

Closing prices were tops for the day in most cases.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .5 of one point to 78, a high since the market started to plunge after announcement of our intervention in Korea. In the weeks since then the AP average dropped to as low as 70.5.

Motorola dashed ahead for a 3⅜ point gain at 41⅝. Up more than two each were Philco and Zenith. Smaller gains were posted for Admiral at 26⅛, Emerson 16¼, Radio Corp. 17½, Magnavox 15, and International Telephone 11⅞.

Auto shares got off to a poor start but ended near the head of the field Packard, the most active stock, advanced ⅛ to 4⅜, General Motors added 1⅛ to 94¾, Chrysler ½ to 70½, and Studebaker ⅜ at 31⅛.

Market Given Shot In Arm By Demand For TV Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP) — Vigorous demand for radio-television stocks gave a shot in the arm to the whole market today.

TV issues kept their lead over other groups and closed with gains running to more than $3 a share. Advances of around $1 a share or less were the rule elsewhere.

Steel, motor, oil and an assortment of specialty stocks were among the most popular.

TV issues were evidently influenced strongly by news from the industry that not even partial mobilization of the economy would cut very deeply into civilian production.

Also a factor — although to what extent it was difficult to gauge — was the best war news yet to come out of Korea.

Some traders were encouraged, too, by reports from Washington the Congress was finally coming to grips with war taxes and controls after last week's legislative confusion.

A disappointment to some market strategists was a decline in the volume of trading. Sales of 1,760,000 shares were the smallest for the week and compared with 2,180,000 Tuesday.

Closing prices were tops for the day in most cases.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .5 of one point to 78, a high since the market started to plunge after announcement of our intervention in Korea. In the weeks since then the AP average dropped to as low as 70.5.

Motorola dashed ahead for a 3⅜ point gain at 41⅝. Up more than two each were Philco and Zenith. Smaller gains were posted for Admiral at 26⅛, Emerson 16¼, Radio Corp. 17½, Magnavox 15, and International Telephone 11⅞.

Auto shares got off to a poor start but ended near the head of the field Packard, the most active stock, advanced ⅛ to 4⅜, General Motors added 1⅛ to 94¾, Chrysler ½ to 70½, and Studebaker ⅜ at 31⅛.

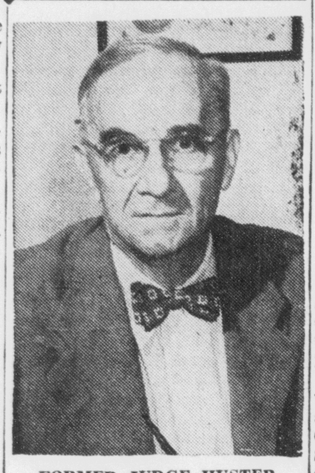
Davis Quits GOP Gubernatorial Race In Favor Of McKeldin

Withdraws For Sake Of Party Harmony And Solid Republican Front; To Head Committee That Will Draw Up Campaign Platform

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 9 (AP) — State Senator Roy Tasco Davis (R-Montgomery) withdrew tonight from the race for the Republican nomination for governor. This means that former Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore will automatically get the nomination.

Davis made his announcement at a picnic of the Washington County Men's Republican Club near here.

He said he was withdrawing for the sake of party harmony and a solid Republican front.



FORMER JUDGE HUSTER

Addressing some 300 persons at the picnic, Davis said:

"I have found that both my worthy opponent and I have hundreds and thousands of friends throughout the state.

"So far as we are personally concerned, I am sure that we would conduct a campaign on a high plane.

"But with the best of intentions, animosities would be aroused that would not serve the interest of the party.

"Republican would be arrayed against Republican, precinct by precinct. Because of this, the success of the local tickets might be endangered. This must not happen.

Interests of Party Paramount

"We want our county tickets to win and we must elect majorities in both houses of the legislature.

"After soul searching consideration, I feel that the interests of the party are paramount to the ambition of any individual. In a sincere desire for unity, and with a deep interest in maintaining a two-party system that is effective, I feel that our candidate should be in a position to discourage factionalism.

"He should be in a position to begin an active campaign against our adversaries now, rather than after the convention which will be held only about a month before the general election.

"For these reasons, I feel that there should be only one candidate for governor. Therefore, with malice towards none and charity to all, I proudly raise my head, which is neither bloody nor bowed, and in the spirit of harmony announce that I shall withdraw from the race for governor."

McKeldin said he will name Davis chairman of a committee to draw up a Republican campaign platform.

McKeldin thus gets a "free ride" for the nomination.

D. John Markey of Frederick County withdrew his candidacy on July 31, and filed for the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate, instead.

Sure of Victory

McKeldin told the picnickers he is sure of victory in the November election.

"We will carry Baltimore City by at least 25,000 votes this time," he said.

Four years ago, McKeldin ran against Governor Lane in the general election. Lane piled up a 44,888 majority in the city. His margin over McKeldin in the 23 counties was just 1,444 votes.

In 1942, McKeldin lost the election by 19,284 votes to Democrat Herbert R. O'Conor.

Davis is just completing a four-year term as state senator. He headed a Montgomery County Republican ticket that swept the Democrats out of office.

Traffic Pile Up Blamed On Cow

A cow was at fault, police said, after probing an accident yesterday on Route 220 at Rawlings that piled up a tractor-trailer moving van, two loaded coal trucks and an automobile.

The moving van, owned by a Wyoming, Pa., company, was parked alongside the highway. The driver and his helper were sleeping.

The second coal truck, driven by Robert E. Junkins, Piedmont, W. Va., crashed against the rear of Paul's vehicle. Both their trucks careened from the road striking the van.

Then an automobile traveling in the opposite direction jammed into the tangle of vehicles damaging a fender. Police said the car was driven by Harry DeWitt Kalbaugh, Westernport. All escaped injury.

The cow was nowhere to be found by the time the wreckage was cleared away and the highway opened to traffic again.

Army Gets Recruiter, Wants Clerk-Typist

Raymond A. Cameron, Lonaconing, enlisted in the Army yesterday and was assigned to recruiting duty at Martinsburg.

William E. Taylor, 241 Elder Street, has enlisted in the Army and has been assigned to the Engineers, the Army recruiting station reported yesterday.

M. Sgt. Clarence Biehn said a vacancy exists for a clerk-typist at the Cumberland recruiting office. Applicants must be single, have no dependents and have an MOS 405 rating.

William Huster, Former Judge, Dies At Desk

Active Republican Is Heart Victim

Former Chief Judge William Alden Huster, 71, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County, was found dead yesterday at about 11 a. m. at his desk in the Law Building, South Liberty Street.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to a heart attack.

Judge Huster, who resided at 502 Fayette Street, had been appointed to the GOP post in December of last year.

An associate, Edwin M. Horchler, said a woman client discovered Judge Huster's body and notified him. A physician summoned immediately from the nearby Medical Building pronounced Judge Huster dead before the arrival of Dr. Deming.

Horchler said he inquired of Judge Huster about his health around 9:30 a.m., when he arrived at the office, and Judge Huster remarked "I'm fit as a fiddle, son."

Later the judge walked to the Second National Bank to transact some business.

According to Horchler, Judge Huster suffered from a heart ailment "as far back as 1937." However, he had not complained of feeling ill in recent months.

Became Judge In 1937

Judge Huster retired from the bench September 12, 1948, after serving as chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit since January 2, 1945. He became associate judge following the death of David A. Robb on April 27, 1937, and was elected in 1938 to a full term but resigned when he reached the age of 70 in 1948, four years before his term was to expire.

He took over the chief judgeship of the circuit comprising Garrett, Washington and Allegany counties as the result of an amendment for reorganization of the Court of Appeals, approved by voters of the state.

Born in Cumberland Valley, Bedford county, Pa., Judge Huster was a son of the late William Gottlieb and Rebecca Hite Huster. In his youth he worked as a blacksmith at Centerville, Pa. After attending summer school in Schellsburg, Pa., he taught school in the Valley for four winters.

Worked for B. and O.

Judge Huster then went to Connellsville, Pa., to work for the B. and O. railroad as a clerk for seven years.

Coming to Cumberland in 1908, he entered the law offices of David A. Robb and D. Lindley Sloan as a student and later took a law course at the University of Maryland. He was admitted to the Allegany County Bar on December 21, 1910, and opened an office here.

When the war with Mexico started, he answered the local militia's first call for volunteers by enlisting as a private in Company G, Mary-

Drive-In Mail Boxes Will Be Replaced

Drive-in mail boxes on Pershing Street in front of the Cumberland Post Office will be replaced as soon as they are repaired, Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, announced yesterday.

Plans for installing the boxes, damaged during flood control construction work, were completed yesterday as workmen began surfacing the street.

Conlon said the public made good use of the boxes there and at bus stops on Baltimore Street.

Housing Project Survey Work Begins This Week

Colored Unit Site Discussed

Surveyors and appraisers will begin work this week on the site chosen for the first 125-unit segment of the 300-unit Cumberland Housing project.

Authorization for beginning surveying and appraising at the eight and one-half acre tract in South Cumberland in the vicinity of First Street was given at a meeting of the Cumberland Housing Authority yesterday afternoon.

James B. Raines, executive director of the Cumberland Housing Authority, said notifications that the work is to begin will go out totday.

At the suggestion of Thomas B. Finan, legal consultant for the authority, the group will have a special meeting within the next ten days to approve the preliminary surveys.

Plans Nearly Ready

Then, Finan pointed out, work on securing options on the needed property can be begun without delay.

According to S. Russ Minter, project architect, plans for the South Cumberland project will be ready for submission to the Public Housing Authority in the near future.

Discussion of sites for the 25- family project for colored residents also came up yesterday. It was agreed to select one as soon as possible.

Plans for the 125 and 15-unit projects must be submitted to the Public Housing Authority by December 31.

Cumberland's 150 units are among 30,000 which will be permitted to start during the last half of this year, in spite of the Korean situation.

Ask More Money

Howard M. Spiker, chairman of the board, suggested that Raines consult officials at Martinsburg, W. Va., where a project for colored residents is underway.

William L. Wilson, Jr., moved that Raines to be given authority to request an amount not to exceed $15,000 from the Public Housing Authority for expenses until the end of November.

The money is part of a $60,000 initial loan granted to the Cumberland Housing Authority by the PHA.

It was explained that expenses will be higher during the next few months because of surveyers, appraisers, architects and attorney's fees. The last advance request was for $11,000.

Approve Personnel Plan

The authority approved a personnel policy for Housing Authority employes and set a $14 per diem traveling allowance.

Also approved was a change in the authority's contract with the PHA in which the attorney's fee will be paid in 30 installments instead of 48.

Raines read a letter from Robert MacDonald Bruce accepting his appointment as a land acquisition attorney for the project.

Tabled was a letter from William G. Laemmel, vice president of the Chemical Bank and Trust Company, New York City, saying that his firm wished to help in the temporary financing of the project.

Raines explained the letter was premature since local plans have not progressed to that point.

Others attending were F. Patrick Allender and William L. Long.

Mrs. Nina Miller Struck By Car

Mrs. Nina Miller, 31, of 719 Maryland Avenue, was admitted to Allegany Hospital last night for observation after she was struck by an automobile as she attempted to cross Baltimore Street.

Police listed the driver of the car as Eugene Vincent Bridges, Mt. Savage. Attaches at the hospital said Mrs. Miller suffered injuries to her shoulder.

Police said no charges were preferred.

Bulletins May Aid Local Firms In Federal Bidding

The receipt of two services which simplify the problems of smaller businessmen wishing to bid on government procurement were announced by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

The services include consolidated synopses of the Department of Defense and General Services Administration procurement information and extracts of contract data prepared by the field service of the Department of Commerce.

Tuesday's synopsis of procurement information listed on 12 pages the gist of detailed data which would have weighed several pounds and would have required perhaps an hour to wade through.

Sufficient information is given for obtaining specific data on items which might be of interest to local businessmen.

The second service, an extract of contract data, will be of information to those interested in securing subcontracts from firms which have secured bids on government procurement.

Harold W. Smith, manager, said the Chamber keeps a complete file of both lists for at least a month and has several lists each day which may be sent to any interested firms.

Several local firms, the Chamber said, have been studying the program closely in an attempt to bid on products which can be manufactured in this area.

Kelly Workers Ask Talks On Wage Program

URCLPWA Plan Is 25 Cents, Plus

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers (CIO), this week asked the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company to begin negotiations on wage issues which include a 25 cents an hour increase.

The local informed the company it desired to reopen the general wage scale at the local tire plant for negotiations in order to carry out the 1950 economic program agreed on at the Policy Committee meeting in Columbus July 24 and 25.

The URCLPWA economic program includes: a general wage increase of 25 cents an hour; any further increases needed to meet cost of living increases since July 15, based on the Consumers Price Index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, and a six cents an hour increase to be applied to the correction of intra-plant and inter-plant inequalities and inequities and area differentials.

The union pointed out it is especially anxious to begin negotiations for the correction of intra-plant and area inequalities since these conditions have changed drastically since the signing of its last contract.

Ralph C. Beard, president, said the recent wage increase granted at the Amcelle plant here created about a 15 cent differential for Kelly maintenance and some hourly rated service workers.

The Kelly local is asking the opening of negotiations under a reopening clause in its contract.

Similar action has been taken by the "Big Four" Rubber unions. Other locals will act as their contracts allow, he added.

Beard said the action was authorized by the membership at a meeting Saturday, following a report on the URCLPWA Policy Committee program.

Eight Treated At Mental Hygiene Clinic

Eight youngsters had consultations with Dr. Gertrude Gross, psychiatrist from University Hospital, Baltimore, at the Cumberland mental hygiene clinic Tuesday.

Miss Ella Darling, psychiatric social consultant, said the patients ranged in age from three to 17 years. Pre-school and school problems were taken up, she added.

The Monday clinic for adults was cancelled because of the illness of Dr. Gross' son, Tommy.

Dr. Gross and her husband, Martin Gross, have been spending a month at Deep Creek Lake.

Land, Fire Week Plans Are Approved

Parade To Be Program Climax

General plans for the combined Maryland Land and Fire Prevention Week observance October 8 to 14 were approved at a meeting of the combined committees last night in City Hall Auditorium.

George M. Hitchcock, general chairman, said special programs have been arranged for each day of the week of October 8.

Monday will be Farmer's Day; Tuesday, Police and Wildlife Day; Wednesday, Conservation Day; Thursday, Fireman's Day, and Friday, Farm Youth Day.

The week's activities will be climaxed by a parade on Saturday. Conservation groups will make floats and volunteer firemen and Cumberland police and firemen will march.

Hitchcock said that each group will divide into subcommittees to set up programs for their individual day.

A midway will be set up at Pennsylvania Avenue Playground. Spaces will be allotted to manufacturers of farm and fire prevention equipment and a stage will be erected for special programs.

Homemakers clubs will give demonstrations in their localities and winning displays will be shown at the midway.

Events will be scheduled for the morning, afternoon and evening of each day, according to Hitchcock. Efforts will be made to obtain nationally known speakers on conservation and fire prevention subjects.

The committee also hopes that clergymen will open the week's observance by appropriate sermons and services in city churches on Sunday, October 8.

William Powell was named assistant chairman of the Land Week committee last night.

Hitchcock will meet with county volunteer firemen sometime next week and conservation groups will meet Friday in the Chamber of Commerce Office.

These quickly gave way under the heat of the sun and August weather returned yesterday afternoon as the thermometer hit a high of 90 at the park and downtown. Temperatures remained in the high 80's all day, dropping gradually to 72 late last night.

The Weatherman says today will be rather cloudy and humid with scattered showers.

Bolt And Forge Calls 18 Men

Eighteen additional men will report Monday to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bolt and forge shops, a railroad representative said yesterday.

The increase in personnel follows a general trend along the line which a railroad official estimated will result in the employment of approximately 500 persons in the system.

The additional 18 men will bring the total at the bolt and forge to 405, about as many as can be handled on two shifts, the local railroad source said. Three-shift work at the shop was discontinued some time ago.

A. K. Galloway, Baltimore, general superintendent of motive power for the B. and O., was in Cumberland Tuesday inspecting the shops and visiting Grafton and Keyser, W. Va., yesterday.

Firemen Hold Kiddies Parade

Twenty-five children in elaborately decorated vehicles of every type participated in a Kiddies Show last night opening the annual LaVale Volunteer Fire Company festival.

Winners were David Hull, funniest; Judy Youngblood, most elaborate, and Jackie Yarnall, most original.

Judges were Miss Mildred Beck, Mrs. George Kemp and J. W. Ritchie.

The festival will be climaxed Friday with a fireman's parade at 7:30 p. m. Twenty organizations have accepted invitations to participate, according to Cromwell Zembower, company secretary.

Purchase Of Car For Sheriff Is Halted By Court

Commissioners Must Show Cause For Act

A show-cause order temporarily restraining the Board of County Commissioners from purchasing a new automobile for the Sheriff's office was issued in Circuit Court yesterday.

The order was issued by Associate Judge George Henderson after the Fletcher Motor Sales filed an injunction suit to prevent purchase of an automobile from another company which he underbid.

The action followed a meeting last Friday of the County Commissioners at which Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Holmes voted to purchase a car from the Frantz Oldsmobile Company.

Board President C. N. Wilkinson protested the action on the grounds that the Oldsmobile Company was not low bidder.

Yesterday's order directs the board of commissioners "to show cause why they should not be enjoined from purchasing an automobile pursuant to their public notices XXX."

In his bill of complaint, Fletcher contends that the county advertisements asked for bids on automobiles in the medium price field as well as a trade-in value bid.

The restraining order also is directed at the county treasurer, Frederick W. Dreyer, and "temporarily restrains" him from paying the purchase price for the Oldsmobile company automobile.

Fletcher claims he submitted the lowest bid for the sale of an automobile and also made the highest trade-in allowance.

Based on this claim he alleges that the commissioners in accepting a bid other than the lowest bid did so illegally and performed a voidable act. He states the commissioners have been unfair to the taxpayers and have caused him to sustain a pecuniary loss both as an individual and a taxpayer.

Court attaches said copies of the restraining order will likely be served on members of the board of commissioners today.

News In Brief

The Christmas committee of the Mercantile Bureau will meet today at 10 a. m. in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Two-Year Driving Tests To Be Suggested For Md.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9 (AP)—A proposal that all Maryland drivers be required to take a safety test every two years will be put up to the Highway Safety Council next week.

Those who couldn't pass the test would forfeit their operator's permit. Under the present system, drivers must pass a test before they can get a permit but the permit is good until revoked in connection with a traffic violation.

Seven other proposals will be laid before the safety group with the suggestion that it recommend them to the Legislative Council.

One would give magistrates the power to revoke a driver's license if they find him guilty of a major traffic violation. Presently, only Baltimore magistrates have this power. The Motor Vehicles Department may revoke licenses at the suggestion of magistrates in the counties.

The Safety Council will meet here next Tuesday afternoon with Arthur H. Brice, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

It is made up of 125 magistrates and state and city police officials and was formed after Governor Lane called the law enforcement officers together in June and told them drastic action is needed to reduce fatalities on streets and highways.

Kimble To Seek Court Ruling On Parking Ticket

Senator Is Tagged On City Property

State Senator Robert B. Kimble received a ticket for parking on city-owned ground surrounding the Public Safety Building last night and immediately asked for a court hearing.

"I am contesting on the grounds that the Mayor and City Council do not have the right to confiscate public property for the convenience of any city-elected official," Kimble said later.

The state senator, who has championed many a cause for the Cumberland Police Department, said he will appear in Police Court this morning at 9 o'clock to learn "what law if any I violated."

The area in question surrounds the Public Safety Building on Frederick Street. It was recently closed as a public parking area and designated for the Mayor and City Council and city and state owned vehicles only.

Warned Against Parking

City police, who parked their private automobiles there while working, were informed last week not to park there in the future or face "disciplinary action."

Kimble, contacted after he appeared at Police Headquarters, said, "I will not pay that dollar for this alleged violation until the court and jury tell me that I have violated a law."

Questioned about the statement, the Senator said it could be taken to mean that he will fight the alleged parking charge to circuit court if an unfavorable decision is handed down today.

Kimble's car was parked on the south side of the building facing Liberty Street at the time it was tagged. He immediately entered Police Headquarters which is located in the building to learn "what I was guilty of."

The officer working at the desk, whom Kimble did not identify, was quoted as saying he was under orders to tag all cars that parked in the area. Kimble's was the only car parked in the vicinity at the time.

Wants Witnesses Subpoenaed

Kimble said he has been eating at a restaurant in the area for the past seven years and parked in the area at the time, "and only at that time."

"I expect to submit a list of witnesses," Kimble said "and will demand that they be subpoenaed" into court to prove that he was not interferring with the "operation of the city government."

Several policemen recently received tickets for parking in the area, but the cases were dismissed in Police Court and Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti said a city ordinance would be necessary to enforce the no parking regulation.

The ticket, under present city ordinance, is issued as a summons when an automobile is parked in violation of the law. The driver is then legally bound to appear at headquarters and if the charge is proved he is fined $1. Usually the tagged motorists post the $1 as bond and then forfeit it.

Frostburg Soldier Missing

A Frostburg couple who have two sons on the Korean front received word last night that one of them is missing in action.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shannon, 170 McCulloh Street, were informed by the Adjutant General that Pvt. Joseph Michael Shannon, 18, has been missing since July 25.

Mrs. Shannon said last night that she received a letter Tuesday from another son, Pfc. Robert H. Shannon, also in Korea, saying that he knew where Joseph was, but would not tell her if she had not heard anything from the Adjutant General.

Pvt. Joseph Shannon joined the Army in December, 1949, and wrote his mother June 24 that he was leaving this country for Korea.

His brother, Robert, has been in the Army for two years.

Davis Quits GOP Gubernatorial Race In Favor Of McKeldin

Withdraws For Sake Of Party Harmony And Solid Republican Front; To Head Committee That Will Draw Up Campaign Platform

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 9 (AP) — State Senator Roy Tasco Davis (R-Montgomery) withdrew tonight from the race for the Republican nomination for governor. This means that former Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore will automatically get the nomination.

Davis made his announcement at a picnic of the Washington County Men's Republican Club near here.

He said he was withdrawing for the sake of party harmony and a solid Republican front.

McKeldin, who was among those present, thanked Davis for his "very magnanimous action."

Addressing some 300 persons at the picnic, Davis said:

"I have found that both my worthy opponent and I have hundreds and thousands of friends throughout the state.

"So far as we are personally concerned, I am sure that we would conduct a campaign on a high plane.

"But with the best of intentions, animosities would be aroused that would not serve the interest of the party.

"Republican would be arrayed against Republican, precinct by precinct. Because of this, the success of the local tickets might be endangered. This must not happen.

Interests of Party Paramount

"We want our county tickets to win and we must elect majorities in both houses of the legislature.

"After soul searching consideration, I feel that the interests of the party are paramount to the ambition of any individual. In a sincere desire for unity, and with a deep interest in maintaining a two-party system that is effective, I feel that our candidate should be in a position to discourage factionalism.

"He should be in a position to begin an active campaign against our adversaries now, rather than after the convention which will be held only about a month before the general election.

"For these reasons, I feel that there should be only one candidate for governor. Therefore, with malice towards none and charity to all, I proudly raise my head, which is neither bloody nor bowed, and in the spirit of harmony announce that I shall withdraw from the race for governor."

McKeldin said he will name Davis chairman of a committee to draw up a Republican campaign platform.

McKeldin thus gets a "free ride" for the nomination.

D. John Markey of Frederick County withdrew his candidacy on July 31, and filed for the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate, instead.

Sure of Victory

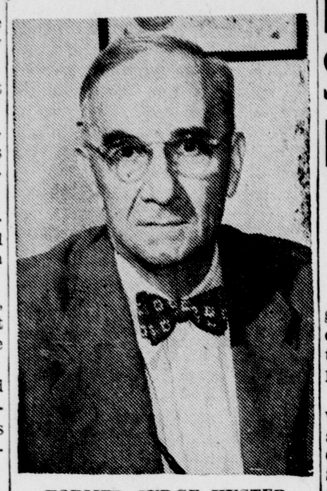
McKeldin told the picnickers he is sure of victory in the November election.

"We will carry Baltimore City by at least 25,000 votes this time," he said.

Four years ago, McKeldin ran against Governor Lane in the general election. Lane piled up a 44,888 majority in the city. His margin over McKeldin in the 23 counties was just 1,444 votes.

In 1942, McKeldin lost the election by 19,284 votes to Democrat Herbert R. O'Conor.

Davis is just completing a four-year term as state senator. He headed a Montgomery County Republican ticket that swept the Democrats out of office.



FORMER JUDGE HUSTER

Active Republican Is Heart Victim

Former Chief Judge William Alden Huster, 71, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County, was found dead yesterday at about 11 a. m. at his desk in the Law Building, South Liberty Street.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to a heart attack.

Judge Huster, who resided at 502 Fayette Street, had been appointed to the GOP post in December of last year.

An associate, Edwin M. Horchler, said a woman client discovered Judge Huster's body and notified him. A physician summoned immediately from the nearby Medical Building pronounced Judge Huster dead before the arrival of Dr. Deming.

Horchler said he inquired of Judge Huster about his health around 9:30 a.m., when he arrived at the office, and Judge Huster remarked "I'm fit as a fiddle, son."

Later the judge walked to the Second National Bank to transact some business.

According to Horchler, Judge Huster suffered from a heart ailment "as far back as 1937." However, he had not complained of feeling ill in recent months.

Became Judge In 1937

Judge Huster retired from the bench September 12, 1948, after serving as chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit since January 2, 1945. He became associate judge following the death of David A. Robb on April 27, 1937, and was elected in 1938 to a full term but resigned when he reached the age of 70 in 1948, four years before his term was to expire.

He took over the chief judgeship of the circuit comprising Garrett, Washington and Allegany counties as the result of an amendment for reorganization of the Court of Appeals, approved by voters of the state.

Born in Cumberland Valley, Bedford county, Pa., Judge Huster was a son of the late William Gottlieb and Rebecca Hite Huster. In his youth he worked as a blacksmith at Centerville, Pa. After attending summer school in Schellsburg, Pa., he taught school in the Valley for four winters.

Worked for B. and O.

Judge Huster then went to Connellsville, Pa., to work for the B. and O. railroad as a clerk for seven years.

Coming to Cumberland in 1908, he entered the law offices of David A. Robb and D. Lindley Sloan as a student and later took a law course at the University of Maryland. He was admitted to the Allegany County Bar on December 21, 1910, and opened an office here.

When the war with Mexico started, he answered the local militia's first call for volunteers by enlisting as a private in Company G, Mary-

Drive-In Mail Boxes Will Be Replaced

Drive-in mail boxes on Pershing Street in front of the Cumberland Post Office will be replaced as soon as they are repaired, Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, announced yesterday.

Plans for installing the boxes, damaged during flood control construction work, were completed yesterday as workmen began surfacing the street.

Conlon said the public made good use of the boxes there and at bus stops on Baltimore Street.

Housing Project Survey Work Begins This Week

Colored Unit Site Discussed

Surveyors and appraisers will begin work this week on the site chosen for the first 125-unit segment of the 300-unit Cumberland Housing project.

Authorization for beginning surveying and appraising at the eight and one-half acre tract in South Cumberland in the vicinity of First Street was given at a meeting of the Cumberland Housing Authority yesterday afternoon.

James B. Raines, executive director of the Cumberland Housing Authority, said notifications that the work is to begin will go out totday.

At the suggestion of Thomas B. Finan, legal consultant for the authority, the group will have a special meeting within the next ten days to approve the preliminary surveys.

Plans Nearly Ready

Then, Finan pointed out, work on securing options on the needed property can be begun without delay.

According to S. Russ Minter, project architect, plans for the South Cumberland project will be ready for submission to the Public Housing Authority in the near future.

Discussion of sites for the 25- family project for colored residents also came up yesterday. It was agreed to select one as soon as possible.

Plans for the 125 and 15-unit projects must be submitted to the Public Housing Authority by December 31.

Cumberland's 150 units are among 30,000 which will be permitted to start during the last half of this year, in spite of the Korean situation.

Ask More Money

Howard M. Spiker, chairman of the board, suggested that Raines consult officials at Martinsburg, W. Va., where a project for colored residents is underway.

William L. Wilson, Jr., moved that Raines to be given authority to request an amount not to exceed $15,000 from the Public Housing Authority for expenses until the end of November.

The money is part of a $60,000 initial loan granted to the Cumberland Housing Authority by the PHA.

It was explained that expenses will be higher during the next few months because of surveyers, appraisers, architects and attorney's fees. The last advance request was for $11,000.

Approve Personnel Plan

The authority approved a personnel policy for Housing Authority employes and set a $14 per diem traveling allowance.

Also approved was a change in the authority's contract with the PHA in which the attorney's fee will be paid in 30 installments instead of 48.

Raines read a letter from Robert MacDonald Bruce accepting his appointment as a land acquisition attorney for the project.

Tabled was a letter from William G. Laemmel, vice president of the Chemical Bank and Trust Company, New York City, saying that his firm wished to help in the temporary financing of the project.

Raines explained the letter was premature since local plans have not progressed to that point.

Others attending were F. Patrick Allender and William L. Long.

Kimble To Seek Court Ruling On Parking Ticket

Senator Is Tagged On City Property

State Senator Robert B. Kimble received a ticket for parking on city-owned ground surrounding the Public Safety Building last night and immediately asked for a court hearing.

"I am contesting on the grounds that the Mayor and City Council do not have the right to confiscate public property for the convenience of any city-elected official," Kimble said later.

The state senator, who has championed many a cause for the Cumberland Police Department, said he will appear in Police Court this morning at 9 o'clock to learn "what law if any I violated."

The area in question surrounds the Public Safety Building on Frederick Street. It was recently closed as a public parking area and designated for the Mayor and City Council and city and state owned vehicles only.

Warned Against Parking

City police, who parked their private automobiles there while working, were informed last week not to park there in the future or face "disciplinary action."

Kimble, contacted after he appeared at Police Headquarters, said, "I will not pay that dollar for this alleged violation until the court and jury tell me that I have violated a law."

Questioned about the statement, the Senator said it could be taken to mean that he will fight the alleged parking charge to circuit court if an unfavorable decision is handed down today.

Kimble's car was parked on the south side of the building facing Liberty Street at the time it was tagged. He immediately entered Police Headquarters which is located in the building to learn "what I was guilty of."

The officer working at the desk, whom Kimble did not identify, was quoted as saying he was under orders to tag all cars that parked in the area. Kimble's was the only car parked in the vicinity at the time.

Wants Witnesses Subpoenaed

Kimble said he has been eating at a restaurant in the area for the past seven years and parked in the area at the time, "and only at that time."

"I expect to submit a list of witnesses," Kimble said "and will demand that they be subpoenaed" into court to prove that he was not interferring with the "operation of the city government."

Several policemen recently received tickets for parking in the area, but the cases were dismissed in Police Court and Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti said a city ordinance would be necessary to enforce the no parking regulation.

The ticket, under present city ordinance, is issued as a summons when an automobile is parked in violation of the law. The driver is then legally bound to appear at headquarters and if the charge is proved he is fined $1. Usually the tagged motorists post the $1 as bond and then forfeit it.

Kelly Workers Ask Talks On Wage Program

URCLPWA Plan Is 25 Cents, Plus

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers (CIO), this week asked the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company to begin negotiations on wage issues which include a 25 cents an hour increase.

The local informed the company it desired to reopen the general wage scale at the local tire plant for negotiations in order to carry out the 1950 economic program agreed on at the Policy Committee meeting in Columbus July 24 and 25.

The URCLPWA economic program includes: a general wage increase of 25 cents an hour; any further increases needed to meet cost of living increases since July 15, based on the Consumers Price Index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, and a six cents an hour increase to be applied to the correction of intra-plant and inter-plant inequalities and inequities and area differentials.

The union pointed out it is especially anxious to begin negotiations for the correction of intra-plant and area inequalities since these conditions have changed drastically since the signing of its last contract.

Ralph C. Beard, president, said the recent wage increase granted at the Amcelle plant here created about a 15 cent differential for Kelly maintenance and some hourly rated service workers.

The Kelly local is asking the opening of negotiations under a reopening clause in its contract.

Similar action has been taken by the "Big Four" Rubber unions. Other locals will act as their contracts allow, he added.

Beard said the action was authorized by the membership at a meeting Saturday, following a report on the URCLPWA Policy Committee program.

Land, Fire Week Plans Are Approved

Parade To Be Program Climax

General plans for the combined Maryland Land and Fire Prevention Week observance October 8 to 14 were approved at a meeting of the combined committees last night in City Hall Auditorium.

George M. Hitchcock, general chairman, said special programs have been arranged for each day of the week of October 8.

Monday will be Farmer's Day; Tuesday, Police and Wildlife Day; Wednesday, Conservation Day; Thursday, Fireman's Day, and Friday, Farm Youth Day.

The week's activities will be climaxed by a parade on Saturday. Conservation groups will make floats and volunteer firemen and Cumberland police and firemen will march.

Hitchcock said that each group will divide into subcommittees to set up programs for their individual day.

A midway will be set up at Pennsylvania Avenue Playground. Spaces will be allotted to manufacturers of farm and fire prevention equipment and a stage will be erected for special programs.

Homemakers clubs will give demonstrations in their localities and winning displays will be shown at the midway.

Events will be scheduled for the morning, afternoon and evening of each day, according to Hitchcock. Efforts will be made to obtain nationally known speakers on conservation and fire prevention subjects.

The committee also hopes that clergymen will open the week's observance by appropriate sermons and services in city churches on Sunday, October 8.

William Powell was named assistant chairman of the Land Week committee last night.

Hitchcock will meet with county volunteer firemen sometime next week and conservation groups will meet Friday in the Chamber of Commerce Office.

Purchase Of Car For Sheriff Is Halted By Court

Commissioners Must Show Cause For Act

A show-cause order temporarily restraining the Board of County Commissioners from purchasing a new automobile for the Sheriff's office was issued in Circuit Court yesterday.

The order was issued by Associate Judge George Henderson after the Fletcher Motor Sales filed an injunction suit to prevent purchase of an automobile from another company which he underbid.

The action followed a meeting last Friday of the County Commissioners at which Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Holmes voted to purchase a car from the Frantz Oldsmobile Company.

Board President C. N. Wilkinson protested the action on the grounds that the Oldsmobile Company was not low bidder.

Yesterday's order directs the board of commissioners "to show cause why they should not be enjoined from purchasing an automobile pursuant to their public notices XXX."

In his bill of complaint, Fletcher contends that the county advertisements asked for bids on automobiles in the medium price field as well as a trade-in value bid.

The restraining order also is directed at the county treasurer, Frederick W. Dreyer, and "temporarily restrains" him from paying the purchase price for the Oldsmobile company automobile.

Fletcher claims he submitted the lowest bid for the sale of an automobile and also made the highest trade-in allowance.

Based on this claim he alleges that the commissioners in accepting a bid other than the lowest bid did so illegally and performed a voidable act. He states the commissioners have been unfair to the taxpayers and have caused him to sustain a pecuniary loss both as an individual and a taxpayer.

Court attaches said copies of the restraining order will likely be served on members of the board of commissioners today.

Frostburg Soldier Missing

A Frostburg couple who have two sons on the Korean front received word last night that one of them is missing in action.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shannon, 170 McCulloh Street, were informed by the Adjutant General that Pvt. Joseph Michael Shannon, 18, has been missing since July 25.

Mrs. Shannon said last night that she received a letter Tuesday from another son, Pfc. Robert H. Shannon, also in Korea, saying that he knew where Joseph was, but would not tell her if she had not heard anything from the Adjutant General.

Pvt. Joseph Shannon joined the Army in December, 1949, and wrote his mother June 24 that he was leaving this country for Korea.

Traffic Pile Up Blamed On Cow

A cow was at fault, police said, after probing an accident yesterday on Route 220 at Rawlings that piled up a tractor-trailer moving van, two loaded coal trucks and an automobile.

The moving van, owned by a Wyoming, Pa., company, was parked alongside the highway. The driver and his helper were sleeping.

The first coal truck, driven by Truman E. Paul, Barnum, W. Va., swerved just as he pulled along side the van. Paul told police a cow walked into the road.

The second coal truck, driven by Robert E. Junkins, Piedmont, W. Va., crashed against the rear of Paul's vehicle. Both their trucks careened from the road striking the van.

Then an automobile traveling in the opposite direction jammed into the tangle of vehicles damaging a fender. Police said the car was driven by Harry DeWitt Kalbaugh, Westernport. All escaped injury.

The cow was nowhere to be found by the time the wreckage was cleared away and the highway opened to traffic again.

Army Gets Recruiter, Wants Clerk-Typist

Police said no charges were preferred.

The Monday clinic for adults was cancelled because of the illness of Dr. Gross' son, Tommy.

Dr. Gross and her husband, Martin Gross, have been spending a month at Deep Creek Lake.

Eighteen additional men will report Monday to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bolt and forge shops, a railroad representative said yesterday.

The increase in personnel follows a general trend along the line which a railroad official estimated will result in the employment of approximately 500 persons in the system.

The additional 18 men will bring the total at the bolt and forge to 405, about as many as can be handled on two shifts, the local railroad source said. Three-shift work at the shop was discontinued some time ago.

A. K. Galloway, Baltimore, general superintendent of motive power for the B. and O., was in Cumberland Tuesday inspecting the shops and visiting Grafton and Keyser, W. Va., yesterday.

Bulletins May Aid Local Firms In Federal Bidding

The receipt of two services which simplify the problems of smaller businessmen wishing to bid on government procurement were announced by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

The services include consolidated synopses of the Department of Defense and General Services Administration procurement information and extracts of contract data prepared by the field service of the Department of Commerce.

Tuesday's synopsis of procurement information listed on 12 pages the gist of detailed data which would have weighed several pounds and would have required perhaps an hour to wade through.

Sufficient information is given for obtaining specific data on items which might be of interest to local businessmen.

The second service, an extract of contract data, will be of information to those interested in securing subcontracts from firms which have secured bids on government procurement.

Harold W. Smith, manager, said the Chamber keeps a complete file of both lists for at least a month and has several lists each day which may be sent to any interested firms.

Several local firms, the Chamber said, have been studying the program closely in an attempt to bid on products which can be manufactured in this area.

Two-Year Driving Tests To Be Suggested For Md.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9 (AP)—A proposal that all Maryland drivers be required to take a safety test every two years will be put up to the Highway Safety Council next week.

Those who couldn't pass the test would forfeit their operator's permit. Under the present system, drivers must pass a test before they can get a permit but the permit is good until revoked in connection with a traffic violation.

Seven other proposals will be laid before the safety group with the suggestion that it recommend them to the Legislative Council.

One would give magistrates the power to revoke a driver's license if they find him guilty of a major traffic violation. Presently, only Baltimore magistrates have this power. The Motor Vehicles Department may revoke licenses at the suggestion of magistrates in the counties.

The Safety Council will meet here next Tuesday afternoon with Arthur H. Brice, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

It is made up of 125 magistrates and state and city police officials and was formed after Governor Lane called the law enforcement officers together in June and told them drastic action is needed to reduce fatalities on streets and highways.
